TRAGEDY AT SEA - FEAR 88 DEAD

Yarmouth Castle Sinks After Fire in Bahamas; Awful Sight: Witness

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—A fierce, quick-spreading fire destroyed the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle today and conflicting reports from the scene of the disaster said that 88 persons were missing.

Enveloped by Flames

The 365-foot vessel went down at 6:03 a.m. (EST), 110 miles east of Miami in the Bahamas, about four hours after she was enveloped by flames.

Three hours after the sinking, the Coast Guard at Miami said it could account for only 462 of the 550 passengers and crewmen aboard the 38-year-old vessel.

The cruise ship Bahama Star, which was trailing the Yarmouth Castle and had her in sight when the fire broke out, picked 250 passengers and 110 crewmen out of the water. The Finnish motorship Finnpulp rescued 90 more, and 12 badly burned survivors were flown to Nassau in Coast Guard helicopters.

The 88 others, the Coast Guard said, "are not accounted for."

May Be Some on Boats

The Bahama Star notified the Coast Guard at 7:45 a.m. (EST) that she had 360 persons aboard, had searched the area "and found no more."

Charles Badeau of the Bahamas Sea Rescue Auxiliary held out some hope that loss of life might not be as heavy as feared.

"It is very possible that there are more survivors aboard the boats," Badeau said.

The Finnpulp radioed the Coast Guard at 2:20 a.m. (EST) that the Yarmouth Castle which plies between Miami and Nassau, was "burning right to the water line."

"It was a terrible sight," said W.R. Cooper, a Coast Guard helicopter pilot who flew into Nassau with three survivors. "Fire and smoke shot 4,000 feet high."

Abandoned Quickly

The Bahama Star had left Miami Friday night just a few minutes behind the Yarmouth Castle. The fire broke out 60 miles northwest of Nassau and the ship was quickly abandoned.

Both the Bahama Star and the Finnpulp began immediate rescue operations and Badeau reported at 8 a.m., "There are no more survivors in the water."

Coast Guard planes circled the burning vessel, dropping flares to aid the rescue operation.

The 12 injured persons were landed at the Prince George wharf here and rushed to Princess Margaret Hospital in ambulances.

No Word on Conditions

There was no immediate report on their conditions.

First reports said the Bahama Star would sail to Miami with her survivors, but later her owner, the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., said she would take the shorter trip to Nassau because she had one critically injured person aboard.

There was no word on where the Finnpulp would make port.

The 5,002-ton Yarmouth castle was built in 1927 by W. Cramp and Sons. Co. of Philadelphia for the Nova Scotia Steamship Corp. and operated for a time between Boston and Nova Scotia. During World War II, she was used as a troop ship.

In 1954, she was renamed Queen of Nassau, but three years later the name was changed back to Yarmouth Castle. She was purchased a year go by Yarmouth Cruise Lines, Inc., a Panamanian corporation.

Fire Dept. Is Lauded By Board

Notes Efficiency During Blackout

Plaudits to Fire Chief James M. Brett and the Kingston Fire Department were issued today by the Board of Fire Commissioners for their "prompt and efficient action in coping with the recent emergency created by the electricity blackout" and its effects on the city.

Unanimous Action

The Commissioners took the action in a special meeting at Central Fire Station. They passed a unanimous resolution commending the department in its response to the power blackout last Tuesday which plunged the eastern seaboard and parts of eastren Canada into darkness for hours.

The resolution:

"Now that the freightening and mysterious events of the night of Tuesday, Nov. 9, 1965 are over and a reasonable calm and efficiency has been restored, we, the Board of Fire Commissinoers of the City of Kingston, New York, think it appropriate to comment on some of the brighter aspects of this Emergency, and to point with pardonable and justifiable pride at the uninterrupted and continual services rendered throughout this emergency by the Kingston Fire Department.

At 5:23 p. m. the lights of the City of Kingston dimmed and went out. This was not the case at Fire Headquarters, 19 East O'Reilly Street, where the lights barely flickered and our standby emergency equipment took over, without interruption, for the duration of the emergency.

Notified at Home

"When the initial "blackout" occurred, Chief James M. Brett was notified at his home, of the situation and the wide spread involvement. He immediately ordered a 6-6 Alarm, through the functioning Fire Alarm System, which effected total mobilization of the Paid and Volunteer Fire Forces. We are happy to note that the response of the off duty Paid personnel was immediate with 100 per cent of the complement reporting. The Volunteer response also was excellent at the sounding of the 6-6 alarm.

Deputy Chief Glyndon Southard and Provisional Deputy Chief Robert Hardwick who were both present, immediately activated the pre-arranged Emergency strategy and began the deployment of personnel and equipment to cover the entire city. The radios on all apparatus was turned on to provide city-wide coverage in the event of possible telephone failure. Fortunately, due to the foresight and efficiency of the N. Y. Telephone Co., this did not occur.

Optimism Is Feeling on Eisenhower

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Doctors watched for any change today in Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition that could alter their belief that the former president will recover from his second heart attack and may play golf again.

From the evidence of his physicians, Drs. Thomas Mattingly and Harry Harper, the five-star general seemed to be on his way toward another victory.

Taking It in Stride

Eisenhower, 75, appeared to be taking in stride the diagnosis revealed Friday, that the chest pains that sent him to the hospital from the Augusta Golf Club Tuesday signaled his second heart attack since 1955.

An Army spokesman said in a statement at 10:40 p. m. Friday night that Eisenhower "spent a very comfortable evening. He went to sleep early, having spent the earlier part of the evening reading."

Eisenhower is expected to have a visit today from Dr. Paul Dudley White, the heart specialist who gained national fame when he assisted in the treatment of Eisenhower 10 years ago.

White said he would stop off to pay a courtesy call on Eisenhower, on his way from Pensacola, Fla., to his home in Boston.

Despite Eisenhower's age and previous heart attacks, the feeling around the sprawling hospital was one of optimism.

See Critical Stage Over

Mattingly, who treated Eisenhower after the former president's 1955 heart attack and heads the medical team here, expressed belief Eisenhower has "passed the critical period."

He also said that with the type of heart attack Eisenhower suffered — a myocardial infarction — there has "to be a certain amount of a guarded prognosis while he is going through the period when the complications usually occur."

"Now," said Mattingly, "he's gone through at least a good half of that first week" which he said the doctors regarded as the period most likely to be associated with complications.

Better to Be Older

Another reason the doctors are optimistic, Harper said, was that sometimes "it's better to have a heart attack in your 70s than in your 40s or 50s."

Harper, an Augusta heart specialist, said that as blood vessels narrow with age, new ones are created.

"Occasionally, he said, "an old

Cong Losses Are High In Twin Engagements

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese forces today reported they inflicted heavy casualties on the Viet Cong in two separate actions, one a Communist ambush that backfired.

American casualties were described as moderate in fighting about 40 miles north of Saigon, where 146 Viet Cong were reported killed.

Possibly 300 Others

The other heavy toll was said to have been inflicted on the Viet Cong about 40 miles southeast of the capital, where 161 guerrillas were killed and as many as 300 others estimated killed.

Communist units initiated two attacks during the night, both on 1st Air Cavalry Division positions in the central highlands.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force B52 bombers attacked two suspected Viet Cong targets about 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The demilitarized zone dividing North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam again was bombed, apparently by U.S. planes.

Reports said that one civilian was killed.

Fought Several Hours

The Americans involved in the fierce fighting north of Saigon were members of the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Infantry Division. A U.S. spokesman said the infantrymen of the "Big Red One" battled the Viet Cong seven hours Friday.

The Viet Cong broke contact Friday afternoon, the spokesmen said, but air and artillery continued to pound their positions and suspected routes of escape.

Moderate Casualties

The casualties among the 1st Infantry troops earlier had been described as light, but an official change late today listed them as moderate.

The ambush that backfired occurred Thursday on Route 15 leading from the coast city of Vung Tau to Saigon. Vietnamese forces received word from a Viet Cong defector that an ambush had been set up.

The report was confirmed by air observation and the Vietnamese 52nd Ranger Battalion —the unit that fought out the bloody battle of Dong Xoai last

'God Is Good'

Twister Destroys Illinois Home, Family Is Spared

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — God is good to me," said Olga Horath, a 49-year-old widow.

Her home in Preston Heights, south of Joliet, had just been demolished by a vicious tornado Friday. But Mrs. Horath was thankful.

All Were Visitors

"I am alive, I have my mother, my grandchildren, my daughter-in-law alive. The material things are unimportant," she said.

All were visiting her when the tornado hit but none was seriously hurt.

The twister swirled through northeastern Illinois and destroyed at least 150 homes and house trailers at Preston Heights; Sugar Creek, another Joliet subdivision; and Channahon, 12 miles southwest of Joliet.

There was one fatality. Mrs. Herman Heisler, about 70, who was visiting her daughter's home in Channahon was killed by falling debris when the tornado blew away the house.

Her husband, Herman Heisler, was hospitalized in Joliet in critical condition.

45 in Joliet Hurt

At least 45 persons were treated for injuries at hospitals in Joliet. Five were admitted.

Some people were luckier but wondered why.

Judy Thrash of Preston Heights said an inside door was ripped from its hinges but there was no other damage to her home. "How could that be?" she asked.

More than 200 persons were left homeless. Most of them slept overnight in emergency civil defense centers set up in a Preston Heights fire station, a Veterans of Foreign Wars post

Mino Suspends Check Case Term, Woman to Prison

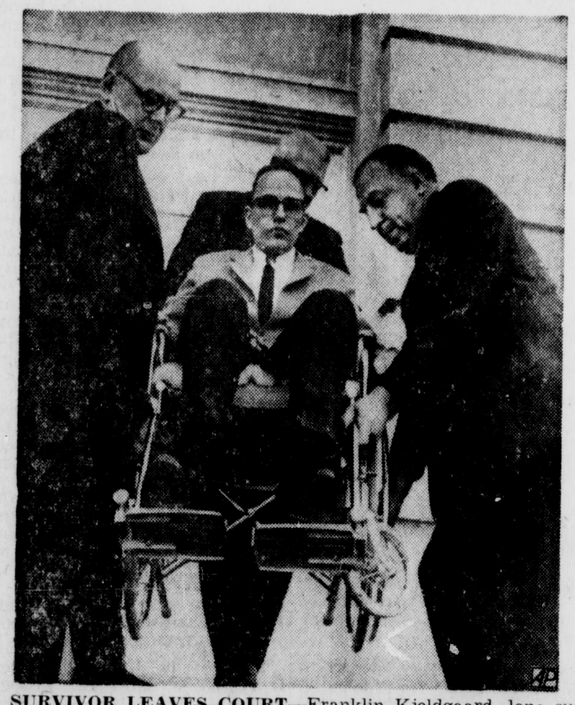

A New Jersey woman who was charged with passing five fraudulent checks in the Kingston area was sentenced to six months in the Ulster County Jail and imposition of that sentence was suspended so that she might be returned to the Connecticut State Prison for Women to complete a term which will expire in March.

Friday afternoon County Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced Doris Naugler, also known as Doris West to the jail term following her plea of guilty to the misdemeanor of issuing a fraudulent check. The checks were passed at Montgomery Ward store in the Town of Ulster. Edward T. Feeney appeared by assignment.

Imposition of any sentence was suspended in the case of a Connecticut man who was charged with prohibited discharge of firearms after a shot, fired at an exhibition at the Onteora Speedway, struck the young lady who was associated with the act.

Lawrence Hervey Gagnon, 45, of Avon, Conn., who stages a fancy shooting act, entered a

Skilled Labor Is Seen Ample for Atomic Site

A representative group of federal, state and local officials accompanied by Central Hudson Gas & Electricity Corp. engineers and geologists on Friday made an inspection tour of a site at Hunter, Greene County, which has been prosposed as a site for a $348 million Federal atomic plant.

Several in Group

George E. Yerry Jr., city, president of the Building Trades Council; Rhoderick Herdman, Lexington, chairman of the Greene County Board of Supervisors, Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane of Windham, a representative of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, a group representing the Atomic Energy Commission, construction firm agents, geologists and engineers took part in the inspection visit to the Greene County site.

Lelan F. Sillin Jr., president of the Central Hudson made known Friday that the corporation has offered to provide the required transmission line to the proposed Hunter site if that area is selected by the federal government for the Federal atomic plant.

Central Hudson made the offer so that electric power costs would be eliminated as a major consideration of the Hunter site for the Atomic Energy Commission's proposed accelerator project. Five other sites in the state are also being studied.

It was reported that Yerry said he was called upon to take part in yesterday's inspection tour of the Hunter site as president of the Building Trades Council. Yerry said he understood that if the Hunter site is selected for the plant, work probably would start in about two years.

Sees Jobs for 2,000

The Building Trades Council president also reportedly said that jobs would be provided for about 2,000 workers in the area if the plant is built on the 4,000-acre site in Greene County.

Yerry also reportedly said there is enough skilled labor in this area to do the work at the proposed plant, and noted there are about 6,000 skilled workers in this district.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller said last week that six sites in New York state, including Hunter, could be provided electric power at five mills per kilowatt-hour through the combined resources of the major electric companies in New York State.

C-H Is Willing

Central Hudson informed Gov. Rockefeller Friday that it was willing to arrange for the necessary transmission system so that power costs would be removed as a barrier to further

Salisbury Claims All Quiet; Some Gangs Roaming

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) —There were no reports of widespread violence in this city today, but African gangs were reported roaming the streets of Bulawayo, 230 miles to the southwest.

Some houses and buildings were reported damaged.

Gibbs Fired

These were the developments today following Rhodesia's call for independence earlier this week. Meanwhile, British Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs faces the problem of what to do.

Gibbs was fired Friday by Prime Minister Ian Smith but as far as Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and her government are concerned, Gibbs remains as the only legal power in Rhodesia. The British fired Smith as soon as he declared the British colony independent two days ago.

But Smith remains firmly in control.

The Smith government, which has imposed heavy censorship, insisted all was quiet.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson, told the House of Commons Smith and his ministers are using "their first taste of power to erect all the sickening apparatus of a police state."

At the United Nations, British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the Security Council Britain will not use force to restore Rhodesia to British control. Instead, he called for support for economic reprisals.

Hail Byrd Selection For Seat

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Harry Flood Byrd Jr., 50, newspaper publisher and state senator, has been named to the U.S. Senate seat occupied for 32 years by the man his own career and political ideas most closely parallel, his father.

The younger Byrd was appointed Friday by Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr., little more than 24 hours after the surprise announcement by the governor of the retirement of Harry F. Byrd Sr., 78.

Discordant Notes

But whether the son might take over his father's role as leader of the state's dominant Democratic organization was something on which even the governor wouldn't speculate.

Harrison said he hoped the elder Byrd, who resigned after 50 years in public office because of an arthritic condition, would regain his health and added: "I'm not going to deal him out as a leader."

The appointment of the younger Byrd was hailed by most party leaders across the state, but there were discordant notes.

"It seems certain there will be opposition in any convention or primary held for the seat next year," said Charles B. Arrington Jr. of Norfolk, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia.

The younger Byrd, who

Trust Co. Buys Route 9W Site For Branch Bank

Kingston Trust Company has purchased from Julie Miron, doing business as Airport Realty Company, a substantial parcel of land on Route 9W, North of Kingston. The property is near the Montgomery-Ward parking lot, and is bounded on the north by the Morehouse Floor Covering establishment. The bank has recently obtained permission from the regulatory authorities for a branch at this location.

George Rusk, president of the bank, said the site would be immediately cleared of several large trees, and prepared for the erection of a modern bank of sufficient size to accomodate the growing Ulster area.

Banking facilities will be provided within a short time through the means of a temporary structure which will provide all modern banking services, including night-depository and drive-in facilities. Meanwhile, plans are in the architect's hands for a permanent structure, which will bring to the many individuals and businesses of the Town of Ulster, the latest and most efficient of banking services and methods.

Ulster Library Reopens In New Building Monday

The realization of a dream which started five years ago will come to pass Monday night when the Town of Ulster Library opens the doors of its new building on land owned by the library on Morton Boulevard in front of Chambers School.

The library moved into the new building this week from its temporary quarters in Chambers School. The facilities will be open to the public 7 to 9 p. m. Monday.

The new library building offers spacious surroundings, nutmeg color wood furniture and shelving and an increased number of books. The board invites the public to view this addition to the town which is valued in the $35,000 bracket. A formal open house will be held at a later date.

The hard work and foresightedness of a handful of people has led to the building of the library which was only a dream in 1960.

Scouts Help with Move

Wednesday night 37 Boy Scouts of Troop 10, Carl Deyo and Jack Chases's boys, trudged from Chambers School to the new building with armloads of books. All boys were numbered, and as they removed books from shelves, so they were placed in order which eliminated much

Board Price Is Slashed For New Paltz Students

Board prices for students at State University College at New Paltz will be reduced from $170 to $145 a quarter year, according to Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz, chairman of the Visitors Council at the College.

The reduction was voted at a meeting of the directors of the New Paltz College Corporation.

Judge Schwartz in making the announcement of the reduction, staunchly defended the management practices of the College Corporation, which is also known as the New Paltz College Association having a board of five directors, including Dr. William J. Haggerty, college president and four members of his administrative staff.

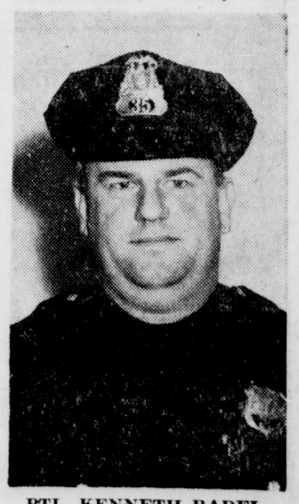

The reduction in food prices for students was voted after the State Department of Audit and Control disclosed the corporation had a four-year profit of $669,000 on food with $227,000 of that profit accumulate in one year.

Judge Schwartz said the Board of Directors voted to reduce the quarterly board rate beginning with the winter quarter in January. The directors agree that experience with the new rate will indicate whether any further changes, up or down, will need to be made in subsequent years.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.

St. Mark 16:15

Clergymen are taking these words to heart today more than ever before, for they are practicing their ministry on trains, in airplanes or wherever they can reach people.

None has more zeal for "all the world" than Dr. James W. Kennedy. When he was rector of the historic Church of the Ascension in New York, he initiated and continued for five summers a sidewalk service each Sunday afternoon. He would make the trip each week from his summer house in Nantucket to conduct the 11 o'clock service and the sidewalk service. At 4:45, Sunday strollers along lower Fifth Avenue would be heralded by a trumpeter in front of the church. At times as many as 100 would gather to listen to Dr. Kennedy's outdoor short story hour. After a 10 minute story-sermon with a stirring message, Dr. Kennedy would invite the listeners into the church for "going home prayers." Many accepted his invitation. Dr. Kennedy explained that he was out there "to reach people the church doesn't normally reach." This he did.

REV. AND MRS. WERNER M. JOHNSON

Bethel Church Revival Series Starts Nov. 16

Beginning on Nov. 16 Evangelist and Mrs. Werner M. Johnson, of Atco, N. J., will conduct a revival crusade at the Bethel Assembly of God Church, 11 Esopus Avenue, Town of Ulster. The services are scheduled for 7:45 p. m. nightly.

In New England, the Johnsons, known as "Ed and Wern," the Gospelites, did extensive radio broadcasting of the Gospel over a number of stations. The Rev. Mr. Johnson pastored several churches in Massachusetts, Maine, New York and New Jersey.

The combined efforts of the revivalist and his wife are known as sermons in Song and Art. Mrs. Johnson sings background solos that constitute a message in song closely related to the large chalk-painting that her preacher artist husband is executing at the time. Black lighting, fluorescent sprays and chalks are incorporated in the effort.

The paintings are awarded to audience-members who earn the same by being responsible for the most first nighters present at their invitation. Lacquer-sprayed before they are awarded, the chalk-paintings are suitable for framing and hanging, with or without glass protection.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Robert R. Vinson extends a cordial invitation to the public of this area to hear the Evangelists timely and Bible-centered preaching of the Gospel, and the duo's songs with triple accompaniment, and Sermons in Art and Song.

New Paltz Methodist, Main and Grove Streets, the Rev. Roy Allan Hassel, pastor — Church school will meet at 9:45 a. m. with classes for all ages including an adult class under the direction of Donald Roper. The services of divine worship will be held 8:30 a. m. and 11 a. m. with this week's sermon by the pastor on the stewardship theme, When Did We See You, Lord. Loyalty Sunday will be observed at both services of worship as members will be given an opportunity to present their pledges for the budget of the coming year. Pledge cards will be available as parishioners enter the church and will be received at the time of the offering to be dedicated to the ministry of Our Lord. A nursery class will be available at the 11 a. m. worship as will a junior church program for children grades 1 to 3. A dinner will be held in the Fellowship Hall for all workers and captains participating in the Every Member Visitation. Visitations will begin at approximately 2 p. m. and continue throughout the day. At 7 p. m. Senior High MYF will meet in the social room. Monday 9:45 a. m. ministerial meeting will be held in the Reformed Church. 7 p. m. Explorer Post 77 will meet in the social room. Tuesday church-wide study of Missions, the Christians Calling, will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the social hall from 8 to 9 p. m. Second progress report of the every member visitation will be held at the church. All workers should report additional results beyond Sunday's report. Thursday 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. the WCTU will meet for a luncheon meeting at the church; 3:30 p. m. junior choir will rehearse; 8:15 p. m. the pastoral relations committee will meet at the parsonage; 7:30 p. m. Boy Scout Troop 77 will meet in the Fellowship Hall; 8-9 p. m. the third progress report session will be held at the church for all those with additional pledges to report. Sunday, Nov. 21, Victory Sunday services at 8:30 and 11 a. m. The pastor will also deliver a junior sermon. At 6 p. m. family night supper with slides of Europe by Mrs. Joseph Graham. Wednesday, Nov. 24 Thanksgiving Eve service at 7:30 p. m. with both the junior and senior choirs participating.

Mamie 69 Sunday

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Sunday will be Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower's 69th birthday.

Realization of the fact today brought a broad smile to the face of her son, John, erasing traces of weariness.

"Are there any plans for your mother's birthday Sunday?", he was asked.

Looking startled, he broke into a smile, and replied:

"No we haven't had a chance to give it any thought, but we will certainly have to. I'm glad you brought it up," he told a reporter.

In constant attendance at the bedside of her ailing husband, Mrs. Eisenhower is expected to mark the occasion quietly.

Record Budget For Lutheran Hour Approved

A record high budget for the Lutheran Hour radio program has been adopted by the Lutheran Laymen's League Board of Governors for the 1965-1966 fiscal year which began Oct. 1.

Charles Richman, member of the International Lutheran Laymen's League, Board of Governors, representing Region 1, reported on the budget to the Mid-Atlantic district monthly meeting held this past week in New York City. He announced that the board voted $2,332,865, which is slightly more than $100,000 higher than the 1964-1965 figure for the Lutheran Hour and other LLL-produced radio programming, including the Family Worship Hour and Day by Day with Jesus.

George Weis, member of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Kingston, is a member of the Board of Governors of the Mid-Atlantic district.

The new budget includes $814,00 for domestic programming and $911,000 for foreign operations. Additional programming in some foreign language versions of the Lutheran Hour and development of improved facilities and purchase of new equipment for certain overseas branch offices brought about part of the increase in the foreign broadcasting budget.

The domestic broadcasting figure includes funds for the introduction of a new type program, entitled "Accent-Faith", as part of a new service being offered to radio stations by the Broadcast Services Syndicate of Chicago.

Mr. Richman urged the officials of the Mid-Atlantic district to put into action that portion of a convention resolution on the Radio Mission effort of the league — "to promote this radio ministry within our church, encouraging the support of our fellow Lutherans through their prayers, the witness of their lives, and their generous gifts.

The Lutheran Hour program is heard locally on radio station WGHQ every Sunday at 12:30 p. m.

Since this instruction has not been offered previously, it is expected that there will be a large enrollment.

World Famous Missionary to Be Retreat Speaker

DR. E. STANLEY JONES

Missionary, Dr. E. Stanley Jones will conduct an Ashram (Retreat) at the Warwick Estates on Nov. 16, 17 and 18 upon the "invitation" of the New York Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

The three-day retreat will be attended by all Conference and District officers and secretaries of the Woman's Societies in this area.

Dr. Jones, considered to be one of the Christian faith's most influential missionaries, has carried on his mission work since 1907. Starting in India his influence has been felt in such countries as Africa, Japan, Ceylon, Burma, Nationalist China, Malaysia, South America, Europe, the Philippines and the Scandinavian countries.

'In Depth' Study

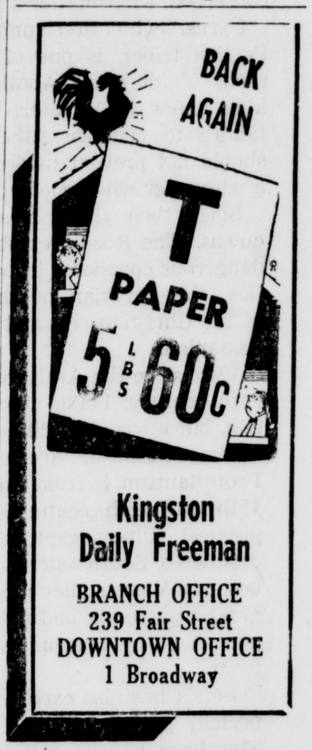

Dr. Jones popularized the form of retreat called "Ashram" which draws men and women of like mind together for several days at a time to study spiritual matters "in depth." Usually the assembled draw upon the different faiths of the members.

For instance, Dr. Jones has brought together Hindus, Moslems and many from other India faiths or with no faith at all. It is a paradox that many who came to Dr. Jones' Ashrams to refute the Christian gospel ended up by receiving Christ. In India, he was a friend and co-worker with Mahatma Gandhi and Ravindranath Tagore.

Before becoming a missionary under the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, he was on the faculty of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. Dr. Jones has been active in advocating the plan of Federal Union for drawing together all Christian denominations into one United Church of America.

'Unlucky 13'

Origin of the expression, "unlucky 13," is obscure but the most plausible derivation is in the 12 apostles and Christ at the Last Supper—totaling 13.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 13, 1965

THE BIG BLACKOUT

It was natural to think of sabotage first, as many did, when the greatest involuntary blackout in history swept down on New York City and the entire Northeast. Clearly, the paralysis that constricted this area encompassing some 30 million persons would have fit in well with an enemy's plan had an attack been launched.

It is only partial comfort to know that all during the blackout defense installations in the area were able to continue routinely because they had emergency power. Such scattered and limited power sources would be of little help to the general populace in the event of an actual attack warning.

On the whole, the urban populations caught up in this blackout behaved remarkably well. But anyone who supposes that city masses would behave that calmly and sensibly if the warning sirens were heard in the darkness had better push his imagination a bit further.

The possibility of sabotage is one of various reasons for hoping that the Federal Power Commission investigative team, acting on orders from President Johnson, will discover how a power failure can spread so swiftly over such a vast area. The blackout will not have been totally a debit if this investigation leads to means of preventing such a situation in the future.

LAND OF A GREAT PAST

Relatively few countries can trace their history back as much as a thousand years. Yet Iran, formerly known as Persia, plans to celebrate the 2,500th anniversary of the assumption of royal power by Cyrus, the first remembered Persian king. As this happened in 538 B.C., the timing will not be very exact; but when 2,500 years are concerned, what matter a few more or less?

Cyrus, who first united the various Persian tribes, is one of the great monarchs of all time. Another, who became king a few years later, is Darius, whose failure to conquer Athens at Marathon should not prevent us from seeing in him a wise ruler who benefited his country.

Since then there have been ups and downs. The Roman empire found its most dangerous opponents in two Persian dynasties, the Parthian of the first centuries of the Christian era, and its successor, the Sassanian.

Ever since the Arab conquest in the seventh century, Persia has been Mohammedan, but a brand as different from the Mohammedanism of Arabia and Turkey as Protestantism is from Catholicism. In the 15th and 16th centuries, when Turkey's greatest sultans captured Constantinople, conquered Southeastern Europe and even besieged Vienna, they might have had even greater successes had not Persia handicapped them by opening wars on a second front.

Persia has also excelled in literature, especially poetry, architecture and painting. The Iranians are justified in celebrating their past achievements, even though their nation no longer ranks as a major world power.

ATOM SHIP PIONEER

Nuclear power is not yet a very important factor in ocean transportation. The chances are excellent, however, that the time will come before long when engines utilizing the immense force locked within the atom will play a dominant role at sea.

When that time comes, the development will in no small measure be a memorial to Rep. Herbert C. Bonner of North Carolina, who has just died at the age of 74. It was he who took the lead in getting legislative authority to build the world's first nuclear-powered freighter, the Savannah. He also championed the idea of a nuclear ice-breaker for the Coast Guard.

Not all of Representative Bonner's advanced thinking in this area has yet been realized, but the pattern is set. He deserves a place in history as a pioneer in the field of nuclear-powered shipping.

SHORTCUT TO SAFETY

Those giant jets which the airlines advertise as carrying their own radar equipment will have nothing on the smallest private plane if a test being conducted in Boston by the Federal Aviation Agency proves the feasibility of a new idea.

The idea is to televise the radar scopes used by air traffic controllers on the ground and transmit the pictures to tiny television sets in small planes.

Sixteen pilots are flying two aircraft in shifts in the vicinity of Logan International Airport, watching the blips on 5-inch screens in their cockpits. Half of the pilots are experienced in interpreting radar displays; the others have had little or no such experience.

A similar system was introduced in New York harbor in 1962, using land-based Coast Guard radar and television sets aboard ships. The FAA now hopes to determine whether the technique can be used in the sky by ordinary private pilots as a means of sighting and avoiding other planes and bad weather and as a navigational aid.

Global View

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

...UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA)—Red China's prestige in Asia, Africa and in the Communist world has declined sharply since the United States decided to check her aggression in Viet Nam.

Even Asian and African diplomats not noted for their pro-American views attribute Peking's setback to President Johnson's historic decision.

"The Viet Nam conflict exposed Mao Tse-tung as a tiger without claws who wants other nations to fight his battles," an Asian diplomat told me.

A young African official, once a fervent supporter of Red China's revolutionary brinkmanship, pointed to Mali and Kenya as the latest of former colonial nations to turn against Peking.

Mali's President Mobido Keita recently decided to visit Russia and Yugoslavia. Peking's chief enemies in the Red camp, to underline his break with Mao's imperialist policies.

In Kenya, Red Chinese agents now castigate the nationalist leader Jomo Kenyatta, former head of the fierce Mau Mau, as a "dishonest fascist." They have organized a secret organization which calls itself "People's Front of East Africa" for the purpose of undermining Kenyatta's regime.

More African nations now realize that Red China intends to use them as pawns against the United States and West Europe. This was indicated recently in a long doctrinal article written by Peking's Defense Minister Lin Piao.

Asian and African leaders were especially irritated by Lin Piao's blunt statement that Red China regards their rule merely as the first stage before Communist revolutions in which, presumably, they would disappear.

Each day, in fact, brings new evidence that Mao Tse-tung's friends, like Communist North Korea and Fidel Castro's Cuba, are deserting his camp.

The pro-Chinese parties in Indonesia, Japan and India are now fighting for their existence.

Only a year ago, Red splinter groups in Europe, especially in Norway, Italy, France and Belgium, saw Mao's revolutionary brinkmanship as the wave of the future. Today they are rent by dissension and quarrels over Red China's failure to give more help to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong.

More important is Russia's decision to stiffen her opposition to Mao's "anti Marxist" policies.

After Nikita Khrushchev's fall a year ago, the Kremlin's new leaders, Leonid Brezhnev and Aleksei Kosygin, decided to soft pedal their quarrel with Peking. But pressed by disgruntled marshals and generals, who fear Russia's involvement in the Vietnamese conflict, the Kremlin has once more emerged as the leader in the struggle against Peking's adventurists."

The Chinese are obviously aware of their deteriorating international position — even if some of their supporters among American professors and beatniks are not. That is why Peking worked hard for the postponement of the African-Asian conference in Algeria.

It was Peking's contention that Russia was not an Asian or African nation and was, therefore, not entitled to a seat at the conference. However, with Jomo Kenyatta, Mali's President Keita and Egypt's President Nasser backing Moscow, Russia's seat was assured.

There may be no speedy end to the conflict in Viet Nam, but in the view of specialists on communism, the diplomatic tide is now running decidedly against Red China.

Your Dental Health

Dentistry Very Different Under English Government

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA)—Verity Parker is a little English girl who lives in London. She's 12 now and is having the usual dental difficulties of her age. Recently she finished two sessions with the family dentist. Her teeth were cleaned and examined and three cavities were filled with silver amalgam.

Do you know how much her father paid the dentist for this work? Zero. In England the government assumes the financial responsibility of promoting and maintaining good dental health. Patients 21 years of age or under pay nothing to the dentist; over 21 they pay up to, but not more than, $2.80 at the start of a series of treatments.

"Free" dentistry has been made possible in England by passage of the National Health Service Act by Parliament just after the last war, at a time when there was an accumulated need for medical and dental rehabilitation.

This system of social security is widely supported here and, while there are some gripes from all sectors, there doesn't seem to be any pressure to repeal N.H.S. and return to prewar conditions. It's reported that all three major political parties played a part in its development. The Liberals proposed it in the form of "the Beveridge Plan." The Tories published the white paper on which the N.H.S. act was based. And in 1946 it was passed by the Labor government then in power.

Although the government is committed to N.H.S. there is concern for the staggering sum it costs. Last year approximately $150 million was paid out by the exchequer to dentists for patient care. This does not include cost of expansion of facilities for training dentists and ancillary personnel.

Dentists gripe, too. They complain of overwork and underpay. There are hardly enough dentists to fulfill the needs of a people which is rapidly becoming educated to regular dental care and preservation of good dental health.

On a basis of 2,040 hours of practice per year, which includes time spent on "paper work" (completing forms and applications), yearly income of dentists in England is about $9,000. But, in order to attain this average, a dentist must see a great many patients each day. Therefore appointments are usually 15 minutes or less.

There are dentists who make more. There is a tale about one dentist who treats as many as 100 patients a day. He has three chairs and four nurses and dashes from room to room. He makes over $20,000 a year.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With highly questionable judgment, critics of U.S. policy in Viet Nam are resorting increasingly to the words "McCarthyism" and "McCarthyite" to characterize their most vocal opponents.

When some public figure suggests that Communist influences may be at work among young Americans who in some cases not only oppose the war but propose wrecking the military draft, the ghost of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin is raised.

The young critics, and some of their adult defenders, argue more and more today that any hammering on the Communist theme represents an effort both to blacken and to silence the critics.

USE OF WORDS like "McCarthyite" is plainly intended to evoke memories of the senator's four-year barrage of charges against a wide assortment of people in American life, most of them in or linked with government.

But a careful review of writings pertinent to the McCarthy era (1950-54), including those of former President Eisenhower's aides and of former Michigan Sen. Charles Potter (a committee colleague of McCarthy), discloses no foundation for such parallels with today.

Their reports suggest strongly that there can be no McCarthyism without McCarthy, that his extravagant assaults on the careers and reputations of many men had less to do with the real dangers of communism than with some insistent personal drive toward personal ends the senator himself could not have defined.

No man of his curious and very special make-up is on the horizon today. Nor are the times and the circumstances the same.

McCARTHY AT HIS HEIGHT had power, the power that goes with controlling a Senate investigating committee. No one presently leading Senate and House investigating committees, or holding any other seat of inquisitorial power, threatens to move on a McCarthy-like course.

McCarthy's charges of communism reached into every corner of government, including even the U.S. Army itself. The public figures now complained of by our Viet Nam policy critics are defenders of the Army. Only the powerless radical rightists see communism everywhere.

McCarthy benefited mightily from a general climate of fear as the Russians opened the Cold War, stole our atomic secrets, threw their weight into the Korean war and otherwise shocked an America which had been their World War II ally.

THERE IS NO SUCH GENERAL FEAR today, despite endless probings by Moscow, Peking and Havana in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Again, the radical rightists voice constant fear — but this nation always has had minorities which live in the grip of overriding fear — totally divorced from the real events around them. The unique feature of the McCarthy era was that the fear was broad.

Unquestionably, the senator was assisted in exploiting that fear by his clever grasp of the workings of the press. But here, finally, he overreached himself, for it was public exposure which destroyed him.

By a strange twist, it is not potential "McCarthyites" but the flamboyant critics of U.S. policy who today are reaping the same kind of publicity benefit McCarthy enjoyed a dozen years ago. The draft card burnings, train haltings, demonstrations and teach-ins are peculiarly suited to capture attention from press and television camera.

Far from being "silenced" by a reborn McCarthyism or anything else, they are winning a steady audience far larger than merited either by their small numbers or the light weight of their highly emotional argument.

Economic Changes

Capitalism Rears Its Head in Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE — (NEA) — The Czechs, who enjoy making jokes at the expense of their Communist rulers like to tell about the run on onions.

A Prague grocer who had a surplus of onions persuaded his friend, Pavel, to stand in front of the grocery store as though he were the first in line. "What are they selling?" asked the first woman who happened by. "Onions," Pavel replied.

"But aren't there enough onions to go around?" the woman demanded, joining the queue. "I have no idea, lady," Pavel shrugged. "But my wife told me to get here in a hurry."

By this time other women, babushkas tied under their chins, had joined the line. One said she had heard "on good authority" that the government was hoarding onions in order to force the price up.

Within an hour Prague had been cleaned out of onions.

The story is a reminder that under the new economic reforms being pushed through in Czechoslovakia the consumer is a power to be reckoned with.

The consumer has become king. His advice is now sought by market researchers. He has discovered that by simply refusing to buy, or to accept delivery, he can force a business enterprise to its knees.

This is one of the results of the "New System of Economic

Another result is the introduction of profit as a factor in regulating production. In the past, profit has always been a dirty word as far as Communists are concerned.

All of this has changed. Under the new system, factories must pay wages and bonuses from the sale of their products, instead of being subsidized by the state.

This means the end of rigid Communist planning and controls. Plant management will have a certain autonomy, even in the matter of setting prices.

This is not the first time Communists have been forced to resort to capitalist methods in order to avert disaster. In 1921, with millions of Russians starving to death as a result of crop failures and peasant hoarding, Lenin introduced the New Economic Policy (NEP), which he described as a form of "state capitalism."

The Czech crisis which has forced the Communists to put their economic house in order is in no way as severe as the 1921 slump in Russia, but it is bad enough. After attaining high growth rates of 8 per cent and 10 per cent in the 1950s, the economy went into a tail spin in the '60s, from which it has not recovered. There was a drop of 5.3 per cent in national income in both 1962 and 1963.

Production for waste is blamed. Until now Czech workers have been paid bonuses for quantity produced regardless of demand. The result has been warehouses groaning with surplus products that no one wants, or that no one has the money to buy.

The Communist planners were too ambitious. Czechoslovakia accounts for only 2 per cent of the world's industrial output, yet it had a production range which covered seven-tenths of the hardware in the world list of industrial goods, including the most sophisticated machinery.

Under the new economic system, the number of engineering machine tools is being reduced to 1,100 groups, of which 640 will be selected for future research development. The rest will be dropped and hereafter either imported from abroad or manufactured under foreign license, thus opening the doors to Western suppliers.

In particular, the Czech government is anxious to do business with the United States. At present 70 per cent of Czech trade is with the Soviet bloc. As a leading Czech economist explained in an interview:

"We have now reached the stage where our economic expansion depends upon international agreement. We can supply the United States with really sophisticated hardware, particularly textile machinery and food-processing machinery. In return we are in the market for everything from screws to computers. All we need is the dollars, which we can earn by our exports."

Saugerties

Local Pharmacy Provided Needs During Blackout

Paramount Pharmacy Inc., Saugerties, was one of the few pharmacies in Ulster County that remained open during the Tuesday blackout power failure using battery power and candlelight. Many needed prescriptions and necessary drug items were provided for Saugerties area residents.

Paramont also reports having sold 400 candles, 300 batteries, quantities of flashlights, transistor radios, and sterno, which were much needed items during the three-hour power failure.

Kenneth Barnes, president of Paramont said it was very gratifying to hear each person who purchased candles or batteries express their concern over other people who might need these necessary items. There was no hoarding or overbuying, and with large supplies on hand Paramont was able to supply everyone's needs.

Reformed Church Women's Guild Elects Officers

Miss H. Van Etten was elected president of the Women's Guild of Saugerties Reformed Church at a recent meeting in the parish room.

She succeeds Mrs. R. Freligh, who served as president during the past year.

Others named were Mrs. J. Kellerhouse, vice president; Mrs. C. Henderson, secretary; Mrs. R. Freligh, treasurer; Mrs. James Abbott, spiritual life chairman; Miss I. Kraus, service chairman; Mrs. C. Emerick, education chairman; Mrs. W. Overbaugh, hospitality, sunshine, and Mrs. J. Hamilton, nursery.

Installation will be in January. Mrs. R. Wenger was chairman of the nominating committee. Mrs. Abbott presented devotions on the theme, Thankfulness.

It was reported seven members attended the Womens Classisal Union at Gardiner Reformed Church.

The congregational covered dish supper will be held Friday, Dec. 3 in the parish room. A Christmas party will be held at the December meeting.

The program in charge of Mrs. G. Keeley and Mrs. Wenger, was a discussion panel. Hostesses were Mrs. Keeley, Miss Kraus and Mrs. Henderson.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

There was an open meeting at the large and new quarters of the State of New York National Bank at the Kingston Plaza on the subject: "An Approach Towards Preservation of Kingston's Past" by James G. Van Derpool, chairman of New York City's Landmarks Preservation Commission. In this most modern room with its sprinkler system on the ceiling the talk about old houses was sponsored by the Friends of the Senate House.

Every seat was taken, and perhaps more would have come if they had known about it, for it was a privilege and a great pleasure to listen to Mr. Van Derpool, in his enthusiasm and dedication in his soft but firm and careful battle against the destroyers of historic America. He said he came with a prepared speech, but there lay his notes untouched as he warmed up on his subject and talked from the heart, as one would say,

Mr. Van Derpool, I understand, has a home in Esopus, so knows and loves our Hudson River valley, and spoke to me about the marble-front building on West Strand, in Kingston. I wish his talk had been taped so it could be run out for many more listeners and one could again enjoy his beautiful diction and voice.

I could not try to cover all the phases of this battle against the destroyers but he suggested that the mayor could appoint a Landmark's Commission. It seems the people of New York State and Kingston of course now have a legal right to set up such a commission as a law had been passsed in the state April 2, 1959, under I think, he called it the Bard Act. Mr. Bard, if I have his name correctly fought for it to his late years, living to age 92. Mr. Van Derpool, feels that there is not another town or county in the state of New York with a richer American history than Kingston and Ulster County, and now it is time just one step ahead of the bulldozer to do something.

It is not simple to set up such a commission, and groups must be formed so that a city law, property rights, and an agency for selection and other arrangements can be made. He suggested that various social groups and clubs could raise their voice before it is too late. He pointed out that now not one of the 1700 era buildings is left on the island of Manhattan. He also described a double keystone and marble cornice at 49 Whitehall Street. He told how some years ago various changes were made to old structures like jacking up the building one floor to put stores in, and taking off the peaked roof and biulding something on top. Restoring those would be a problem.

I noticed one man had some beautiful large colored slide pictures of our downtown buildings, one I saw was of the Mansion House, corner Broadway and West Strand. There was so little time, and so much everyone wanted to talk about.

Mr. Van Derpol felt the law should protect the rights of those who have chosen to live in the lovely old buildings, and to encourage them to keep up the structures by protecting their rights. He described such a situation in Georgetown which he says now is a charming place and he advocates that private owners are generally the best custodians of their buildings. He told about visiting an 1800 era parlor, surrounded by culture and refinement like a historic document.

Many of my readers write to me on the above subject and now I see that so many visiting the recent 1964-65 World's Fair were delighted and descriptive of the old kitchen, rocking chairs of one exhibit. Rembering back to the 1939 World's Fair, where one exhibit had a cobblestone business block with gaslit stores, and people dressed in gay-nineties, the visitors felt a coziness a safety, a warmth and friendliness not found in sterile push-button present buildings and streets.

Waryas Is Victor Of Assembly Race In Area District

A recanvass of votes in the Dutchess County Assembly District 108 was completed Friday and Board of Elections officials reported that incumbent Democratic Assemblyman Victor C. Waryas of Poughkeepsie, was the winner of the Nov. 2 contest.

Officials said Assemblyman Waryas officially defeated his Republican opponent Raymond E. Aldrich by a plurality of 86 votes.

The recanvass of the votes was completed yesterday afternoon, when the official count was reported.

The voting machines in the district had been impounded by Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan on orders from Governor Rockefeller, issued at the request of Aldrich.

Waryas never trailed at any time during the recount which took four days.

plea of disorderly conduct and Judge Mino suspended imposition of any sentence in the case.

Gagnon, who is associated with the Hartford, Conn., police force, puts on an act where he shoots objects from the head of a young lady. While shooting a balloon from the head of the lady at the speedway, a shot struck her and she was injured.

Gagnon told Judge Mino this was the first time in many exhibitions that the act had gone wrong. The young lady was hospitalized and he was charged with prohibited discharge of a firearm. He told the court and District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca that he had performed the act in New York state on numerous occasions and also through the New England area. He also said he had performed the act as entertainment while in the army and was thoroughly acquainted with arms safety. He had been performing with the act for 17 years and this was his first accident. Following suspension of any sentence bail was exonerated.

Cong Losses . . .

June—was sent in to knock out the ambush site.

Attacking with two companies, it took on what was estimated to be five hard-core Viet Cong companies.

With strong air support hitting almost at the edge of the attacking troops, the rangers sent the Viet Cong reeling through the rice paddies and swamps.

Count 161 Bodies

Col. Charles H. Reidenbaugh, 44, of Carlisle, Pa., senior adviser to the 10th Vietnamese army division, reported 161 Viet Cong bodies had been counted after the ranger attack and the air and artillery assaults.

The attacks on the air cavalry positions were made at the division base camp of An Khe about 210 miles north of Saigon, where 75 to 100 mortar rounds were fired on American troops.

The Viet Cong attempted an assault with automatic rifles, but were driven back. No U.S. casualties were reported. U.S. helicopters and artillery repulsed the attack and three Viet Cong bodies were found this morning.

The other attack on the 1st Cavalry troops occurred at a command post in the Plei Me Special Forces camp, the site of bitter fighting several weeks ago. Light U.S. casualties were reported. There was no report of Viet Cong casualties.

Probe Underway

The bombing in the demilitarized zone was reported by a U.S. Air Force spokesman. The attack was made by at least two jet planes which, he said, were presumed to be American.

He said the planes made rocket passes and released seven bombs on a village on the south side of the Ben Hai River. One civilian was reported killed, another wounded.

The spokesman gave no explanation of the bombing, but said an investigation is under way. All military activity is barred in the demilitarized zone under the terms of the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Both the north and south sides of the zone were bombed on successive days in September by U.S. planes. The two bombings later were said to have been a result of a mistake in bridge identification.

Raids over North Viet Nam continued. Navy planes from the U.S. 7th fleet carrier Oriskany carried out five missions, mostly against communication lines.

Four County Youths Called for Service

Four area youths were inducted into service through Selective Service Boards 18 and 19 recently.

They included William W. Brown Jr., Indian Road, Milton, who was inducted in the Army and forwarded to the Fort Dix, N. J., Reception Center; and Robert J. Stephano, 44 Boulder Avenue, city, Harry L. Wilber Jr., Route 212, Lake Hill, and Alexander T. Vanacore Jr., Lattintown Road, Milton, who were inducted in the U. S. Marine Corps at the Albany induction station.

unnecessary handling. The job was completed in about half an hours. The Library Board extends its many thanks to the scouts who did such a speedy job of moving a library. Two Scouts, John Augustine and John Burger have volunteered to see that the flag donated recently by the Daughters of America will always be flying in front of the library. The flag pole donated by Jay Steel Products, was painted by Gerry Woodvine, and was put up by Don Crespino and Nick Valenzano.

The library board also expresses its thanks to the Board of Education of the Kingston Schools Consolidated for being allowed to operate out of the Chambers School. Shelving the town library had installed will remain for use by the school library. Much credit should be given principal Reginald Russell for his patience in allowing the library to remain in his building. Two libraries each trying to expand within a given space is a chaotic atmosphere to be working under.

Due to the moving, the Library was closed this past week, which will make many feel they have overdue books. However, these should be returned as soon as possible and throughout November all overdue books will be fine free.

Canvass Continues

The building fund drive canvassers are making calls on the people of the town and are requested to make reports on their progress to Mrs. Robert Bondar or Mrs. Edmund Frawley, drive treasurer.

Workers who were not listed previously are East Kingston, Mrs. Francis Moran, capt.; Mrs. David Nagy, Mrs. John Watzka, Mrs. Frank Spohrer; Kraus Farm, Mrs. Roy Freeman, captain, Mrs. Joseph Sanford Gossett, Mrs. Robert Abramsky, Mrs. Katherine Krajick; Richmond Park, Mrs. Robert Yallum; Cherry Hill, Mrs. Roger Dell; Carle Terrace, Mrs. Joseph Colen.

Many items, which all seem so small but when added up make a sizeable sum could be donated by interested townspeople if they would care to do so. Such things as a wall clock, pencil sharpener, trash cans, door mats, tables and shelving for workroom and cellar, runner type carpeting from doorway in, umbrella stand, coat rack are but a few.

The hours starting Nov. 15 will be Monday through Thursday 7 to 9 p. m.; Tuesday through Friday 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. and Saturdays 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Robert Stanley of Lake Katrine will be custodian. Mrs. Walter Burger of Lawrenceville Street is head librarian. Volunteers are always welcome. They may contact the librarian as to when and how they could help.

Kivlin arrested Myers Saturday Oct. 16, climaxing a bizarre case that had its anti-climax on the Thruway south of Kingston where one of the suspects shot himself to death rather than face capture and the other was captured by State Police.

Myers was taken into custody Oct. 16 in front of a Port Ewen drug store a short distance from the Rondout Creek Bridge. The local patrolmen had gone to Port Ewen after receiving a tip that there was a hitch hiker in that village.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy at the time of the arrest of the Michigan suspect said "I want to commend Officers Radel and Kivlan for an excellent job in this apprehension and arrest."

Radel succeeds Officer John Crespino and the other officers elected are: James Scott, vice-president to succeed Harry Short, who recently resigned from the department; Detective Albert Hutton, recording secretary to succeed Edward Ortlieb, and Richard Scherer, financial secretary succeeding Ira Hadsel.

Crespino had served four terms as president. Crespino has been active as a member and officer of the Hudson Valley Conference of the Police Conference of the State of New York and of the Police Conference of the State of New York.

Patrolman Radel previously served as treasurer of the KPA.

Christmas Seal Dinner Planned Tuesday Night

Dr. Henry H. Shultz, director of the Bureau of Chronic Respiratory Disease, New York State Department of Health, will be guest speaker at the 1965 Ulster County Christmas Seal dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Tuesday, Nov. 16 at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association in making the announcement, said "Dr. Shultz and his subject relates directly to the work of our county association's Christmas Seal program at this special opening event for the 59th annual Christmas Seal Campaign."

The TB and Health Association is the local county Christmas Seal agency.

The dinner program will feature highlights of county Christmas Seal organization and the outstanding volunteer force supporting it, by John M. Robbins, Saugerties banker, and Fred H. DuBois, county treasurer, who serve as 1965 Ulster County Christmas Seal Campaign co-chairmen. The dinner program will then focus on respiratory studies and the Kingston Respiratory Survey and Breathing Test project now underway as the currently outstanding Christmas Seal project in the community. "The survey study was organized and is being coordinated by the Ulster County TB and Health Association as a major health project supported by the Association's Christmas Seal Fund. The project is being conducted in close cooperation with Dr. Shultz and his department, and is supported by the County Health Association and the County Medical Society," Dr. Schwartz said.

Dr. Shultz, a native of Kingston, received his A.B. from Princeton University, graduated from Albany Medical College, served as assistant resident and resident in medicine at Albany Hospital, and entered private practice in internal medicine. Formerly he served as assistant director and director, Bureau of Tuberculosis Case Finding, New York State Department of Health and last year was the director of the Bureau of Chronic Respiratory Diseases of the State Department of Health. Dr. Shultz is an associate in medicine, Albany Medical Center Hospital; instructor of medicine, Albany Medical College and associate dispensary physician, Albany Medical Center Clinic. He is a member of the Medical Society of the County of Albany, Medical Society of the State of New York, American Medical Association, and member of the American Trudeau Society.

"We sincerely urge and invite our many Breathing Test Volunteers, Christmas Seal Volunteers and all interested citizens and friends to join us at the Christmas Seal dinner and program on Tuesday evening," stated E. Robert Johnson, executive director of the TB Association, and coordinator of the Breathing Test Study. "The value of this type of respiratory study will be further demonstrated, and the great impetus to the work gained in such large measure from dedicated, unselfish, civic-minded volunteers will be warmly evident in every aspect of the evening's program." Reservations may be phoned in to the TB-Christmas Seal Headquarters, 124 Green Street.

Mob Outbreak Causes Damage to Buildings

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—"By legal definition it was a riot," says Police Chief Dean Fox, "but for all practical purposes it was more a mob action."

The post-mortem in his office before dawn today covered:

Damage to 19 buildings in the area of Kalamazoo's downtown shopping mall, four persons injured — two policemen among them — Christmas decorations down and 12 youths in custody.

Fox estimated display window losses alone up to $3,500.

The rampage spilled Friday night from a scuffle at a dance at Lincoln Junior High School here. Attending were local youths and guests from the Job Corps Training Center at nearby Battle Creek.

The center had been dedicated formally only hours before by R. Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Before the violence was put down, every police agency in Kalamazoo county plus state police answered a general assistance call.

Held were 11 identified as Job Corps members.

Quell Minor Blaze

Fire fighters extinguished a blaze shortly after 8 a. m. today at Morris Bag and Junk Co., Inc., storage yard, 168 Cornell Street. Cause was listed as insulation burned by wire. Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central Station responded along with units from Wiltwyck, Wicks Hose and Excelsior.

AMERICAN MARINES STORM ASHORE—U.S. Marines run through heavy surf as they come ashore during joint Vietnamese-U.S. landing assault near Tinh Tuy, South Viet Nam. Western Hospitality Goes All Out for Meg

PAGE, Ariz. (AP) — Even a princess, this time Britain's Princess Margaret, couldn't shake the reputation for Western hospitality of Page — population 1,800.

A royal party is a little special, though.

Take, for instance, Irene Johnson of the Lake Powell Motel. The princess, her husband, the Earl of Snowdon and their royal entourage and guests stayed there Friday night.

"We didn't have silverware," said Mrs. Johnson. "So my sister, Grace, and I pooled our wedding sterling. Other people loaned demitasse cups. They didn't match, and we were going to use old-fashioned motel coffee cups, but at the last minute we used the neighbors' anyway."

The royal party today tours scenic Lake Powell, created by the New Glen Canyon Dam on the Colorado River between Utah and northern Arizona. They planned to return to Tucson later in the day.

The Snowdons and their guests arrived from Tucson Friday, to be met by almost everybody in town, including the Page High School band, and a sign which, for the fourth time at least on the royal tour, misspelled the name of the princess' husband.

It's Snowdon, not Snowden, but the earl doesn't seem to mind.

The visitors drove over the dam, opened last year, and rode across the reddish sand plateau six miles out of town to the motel, operated by Art Greene, 71, who for nearly 30 years was a river boat guide on the turbulent Colorado.

Celebrities with the Snowdons included actress Dorothy McGuire and her husband, photographer John Swope, actress Hope Lange and husband, producer Alan Pakula and actor Roddy McDowall.

The motel had to provide rooms for all the guests and also for a lady in waiting, a private secretary, four U.S. security men and the princess' own security man from Scotland Yard.

The royal party's propjet plane flew over the Grand Canyon on the way to Page.

"It's beautiful," said the princess. "You expect to see a brontosaurus any minute." The canyon is the product of erosion that goes back to prehistoric times.

Greene, who greeted the princess and her party, said:

"I've been practicing for weeks what to say to her. But all I could think of when I met her was 'HY, MA'AM'."

One of Greene's backers in the motel was Lewis Douglas, former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain who is host to the royal pair on their three-week American tour.

Twister Destroys

and a junior high school gym in Joliet.

Although all the damage was outside the Joliet City limits, all the city's policemen and firemen were pressed into emergency service.

Rescue crews worked through the night with floodlights, searching for possible victims trapped in debris. Policemen and 40 soldiers from a nearby Army installation patrolled Preston Heights and Sugar Creek against possible looting.

Lt. Gov. Samuel Shapiro, acting for Gov. Otto Kerner who is in the Far East, was to inspect the damage areas today.

Property damage in Preston Heights alone was estimated at $1 million.

Hail Byrd . . .

missed only serving as governor of Virginia in a career that otherwise is virtually a carbon copy of his father's, accepted the appointment "with dedicated allegiance to Virginia" and a pledge "to do all in my power to advance the best interests of our great nation."

Gov. Harrison, while admitting he had had only brief advance notice of the elder Byrd's decision to retire, said he had considered it a possibility and for some time had given much thought to a successor.

The senator's son, Harrison said, was best trained and equipped to "follow in the footsteps of his illustrious father." The younger Byrd said it was "difficult to imagine a more challenging assignment" and added that "none can ever take his place in the heart of Virginia."

Harrison, who said Democratic Gov.-elect Mills E. Godwin Jr. had concurred in his choice, was questioned on the statement of an anti-Byrd organization Democrat that the appointment would cause resentment.

The governor replied: "Resentment No. Disappointment? Yes. A lot of people aspire to be a United States senator."

portable radios. The city was sectionalized and this patrol was ordered to immediately report any emergency as well as fires.

Cornell Station was re-activated and manned with apparatus under the direction of Capt. Edwin Murphy.

After Chief Brett ordered the 6-6 alarm, he ascertained the emergency needs of the local institutions such as hospitals, nursing homes and other vital agencies of Government and offered the use of any of the Departments facilities to Mr. Percy Quick, general line foreman for the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. Due to no emergency facilities in the City Hall he immediately dispatched a light plant to provide the necessary lights and a portable radio on Fire Department frequency to maintain liaison between the Police and Fire Department and our Street Patrol. During this time several alarms were received also Those were handled with the usual efficiency and dispatch.

At 8:15 p. m., thanks to the great efficiency of our local Central Hudson System, power had been restored and Chief Brett's exaluation of the situation indicated the Emergency was over. Taps were sounded and demobilization effected on his orders.

This type of efficient operation, under emergency conditions, is not an accident, but is due to the careful and farsighted planning of the Kingston Fire Department under the capable directions of Chief James M. Brett, aided by a competent staff of dedicated officers and men and with the Communication System conceived and installed through the past 10 years by a dedicated and efficient Superintendent of Fire Alarm, Philip H. Maines.

We wish to publicly acknowledge our gratitude for the unstinted devotion to duty displayed by the entire Paid and Volunteer Fire Forces of this City, and we wish to publicly compliment the management and personnel of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation and the New York Telephone Co., for their marvelous performance during this emergency and the calmness and efficiency with which they went about their task of restoring power at the earliest possible time and the maintaining of vital communications throughout the entire time."

The resolution was signed by Board Commissioners C. John Bechtold, president; Edward Dasher and Henry Boice.

E. B. Riccobono Dies, Well-Known In Music Circles

Edmund Bella Riccobono, of Bloomington, long active in music circles, died Friday in this city. He was born in Budapest, Hungary, son of the late Otillio and Theresa Oravetz Riccobono.

He served in the U. S. Navy in World War 1. He was a violinist and cellist and played with Kingston Symphony and at Reade's Kingston Theatre. Before coming to Kingston, he played in leading theatres around the country.

Mr. Riccobono attended St. Mary's Church and was a charter member of the Bloomington Fire Department. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Emelia Weyhe and Miss Ottilia Riccobono, both of Kingston; a brother, Theodore Riccobono, of Bloomington; two grand nephews and three grand nieces.

The funeral will be at 9:30 a. m. Monday from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, thence to St. Mary's Church, where a requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a. m. for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

727 Carrying 99 Makes Emergency Illinois Landing

SPRINGFELD, Ill. (AP)—An American Airlines Boeing 727 jet carrying 93 passengers and a crew of 6 made an emergency landing at Capital Airport Friday after the pilot reported buffeting in the rudder controls.

The airport tower said the plane, bound from Dallas, Tex., to Chicago, made a normal landing. No one was injured.

A spokesman for American Airlines said severe weather conditions in the Chicago area, with tornadoes and heavy rain and hail, and the mechanical difficulty with the rudder prompted the landing.

Passengers were taken to Chicago on another American Airlines plane flown from Chicago.

Rotary Endorses Cancer Program

Kingston Rotary Club, through its President Dale Lake, gives support to the Cancer Society and its programs.

Dr. Kirken V. Kirk gave a short talk on cancer and said that 25 people out of 100 would contact cancer in some form or other. He further elaborated that in the past the 25 would have died but today with the advances made a great number of these 25 would live.

Dr. Kirk introduced Mrs. Paul Wendrow and Mrs. Edwin C. Shumate.

Mrs. Shumate is director of the Cancer Society in the Hudson Valley region. She pointed out how business firms are paying the cost to have their employes tested for cancer. It was stressed that the most important thing in cancer cure or retardation is early detection. Therefore, an early examination is a must she said.

The Cancer Society is constantly trying to educate the public by lecturing, movies, demonstrations and therapy. Mrs. Shumate said that all the Cancer Society facilities are at the disposal of the public and that each citizen should make it his responsibility to acquaint the public.

Vatican Unit Acts On Workers Plans

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council acted today to permit worker priests throughout the world.

In a preliminary vote on a schema on the priestly life, the bishops of the council approved a section that speaks of allowing Roman Catholic priests to "work with their hands, sharing in the lot of workmen, with approval of authority."

The council action came three weeks after the bishops of France, with the approval of the Vatican, decided to resume the controversial worker priest experiment in their country.

The movement first began in France in 1947 and was condemned by the Vatican eight years later.

The Vatican banned the movement on grounds it seemed to be turning pro-Communist. Some worker priests quit the priesthood and others refused to bow to the Vatican order.

Capitol News In Brief

New in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) —An inquiry into the cause of the power blackout in northeastern states is in recess for the weekend but its leaders are continuing work.

The leader of the Ku Klux Klan says the House Committee investigation of the Klan has been followed by membership increases.

Answer Is Pending

Blackout: Chairman Joseph Swidler of the Federal Power Commission, head of a group trying to find out why a power failure blacked out much of the Northeast, hopes a probable cause may be determined next week.

He and a small staff of aides planned to work through the weekend although the formal investigating sessions are in recess.

Swidler said the study of records "may give us the story of exactly what did happen" by sometime next week.

No Remedy Union

Strikes: The AFL-CIO in a special report entitled "Why Strike?" says that proposals for antistrike laws are like a drastic remedy for headache:

"Decapitation will cure a headache but it can scarcely be called a remedy."

The report said strikes are a part of the collective bargaining system and cause only a small loss in production estimated at two-tenths of one per cent of all working time so far this year.

Salisbury Claims

condemned Rhodesia for seizing independence illegally and called on all nations to withhold recognition from the "racist minority." Only France abstained.

The council set a session for today to consider an African resolution calling on Britain to "crush the rebellion."

The United States responded to Stewart's call for sanctions by saying it has barred imports of Rhodesian sugar, suspended application for credits and loans and embargoed arms shipments.

African reaction, however, was to urge more direct force to crush Smith's government.

The heads of Mauritania, Guinea, Mali and Senegal adopted a resolution calling on black Africa to "send contingents to Rhodesia to aid the nonwhite majority."

Dig In on Border

On the Zambian border, black and white troops faced each other across the 400-yard Zambezi River and both sides were reported digging in. A spokesman for President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia called the buildup normal reaction to a state of emergency declared in Zambia after the independence grab, Zambia has 2,500 troops, Rhodesia, 10,000.

The Soviet Communist party paper Pravda called Rhodesia a racist hotbed "that should be eliminated."

Officers, Committee Members Are Elected During Extension Service Meeting Thursday

The Cooperative Extension Service of Ulster County held its annual business and dinner meeting Thursday at Elmer's Inn, Ruby, with over 325 members attending. Guest speaker was Manville Wakefield, Sullivan County historian, who presented an illustrated talk on the Delaware and Hudson Canals.

The invocation was given by the Rev. John Needham of the Plattekill Reformed Church and was followed by a roast beef dinner. After the meal, special entertainment was presented by Sandra Kashuba and Skip VanAlst, both of New Paltz, and older members who played and sang a few songs with their guitars. At the business meeting, Mrs. Carl Dedy of Lomontville, president of the Ulster County Cooperative Service Association, presided as the following people were elected to the executive committees: Agricultural Department — Gordon Davenport, R.D., Kingston; Anthony Morielo, New Paltz, and Franklin Sahler, Ellenville. 4-H Club Department: Richard Boice, Lake Katrine; Mrs. James Dunbar, Kingston; Paul Lein, Wallkill; and Ivan Warren, Milton. Home Department: Mrs. John Schoonmaker, Accord;; Mrs. John Koniuk, Flatbush; Mrs. Charles Newcomb, Woodstock.

Also elected were officers for the Association: President, Mrs. Charles Dedy, Lomontville; Richard Boice, Lake Katrine; and Philip Davis, Kerhonkson. The business meeting was concluded with copies of the financial and program reports being distributed to members present.

Mrs. Gerald DuBois, chairman of the dinner committee and member of the 4-H Club executive committee, introduced the guest speaker. Wakefield reviewed and discussed the slides of the locks and Canal areas of the old Delaware and Hudson Canal. It proved to be an informative and interesting presentation.

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

I recently moved into a house, and the kitchen stove had been kept in a spotless condition, so I want to keep it that way.

Please let me know the best way to do this.

Jane L.

Dear Jane:

The most important thing is to wipe off any spills or burnton food as soon as the burners have cooled, so that there is no grease or spilled food buildup.

But if it does become necessary to do a bang-up cleaning job, here's what to do:

First, place all removable parts from your stove top (grids, burner and drip trays) in your kitchen sink, and completely cover them with hot water from the faucet, adding about one-half cup of electric dishwasher compound, and let soak over night.

Clean the rest of the stove top with a cloth or sponge, wrung out in hot detergent water.

Don't forget the range hood (if your stove has one).

Range hoods have filters to catch the grease in exhaust fumes, and collect dust as the air through the filter. Check this filter often and clean when necessary, in order to keep it unplugged—and your exhaust system will run more quietly and more efficient in its operation.

Next morning you will find the carbon and grease, which has soaked off the stove parts, floating on the top of the cold water in the sink.

Scrub all parts with a stiff brush, to remove any carbon, grease or film which did not soak off.

Drain out water in the sink, and re-fill with hot, sudsy water. Finish the cleaning job with a sponge, then dry the parts so they will not drip on the floor when you carry them back to your nice, clean stove.

Dear Heloise:

A though came to me—instead of using a small plate on which to rest my cooking spoon and such, I use a plastic cover from a large can of coffee.

Do you know it works perfectly?

A. Cole

Dear Heloise:

After washing baby's plastic or rubber pants, to keep them from sticking together, I put a small, absorbent towel inside before drying them.

After they are dry, I sprinkle a little baby powder on the inside to make them sweet-smelling, and to eliminate further sticking together.

Dear Heloise:

The hint on using salted water to kill weeds brought back a 20-year memory of one night when my husband's mother dropped in.

I had a pot on for spaghetti (salted water). Trying to make a good impression, I asked her to have tea—yes, I made it with the salted water!

However, we are still good friends!

M. S.

Dear Heloise:

When I sewed, the pieces of material were always sliding off my lap or falling behind the sewing machine, until I attached a towel rack (the folding three-arm type) to the wall at the right-hand end of my sewing machine.

I is very convenient for hanging the pieces of a garment, and keeping them within easy reach.

Mrs. J. C. Raleigh

Dear Heloise:

For those of us who enjoy the luxury of a fragrant bubble bath, (but never have the time to take one); and who also enjoy the perfumed scented bath soaps (but find them a little expensive to use often). I think I've found the solution.

When taking my shower, I simply lather the wash cloth with my regular bath soap, then pour a FEW DROPS of my favorite bubble bath on it.

The fragrance lingers long after my shower, and keeps me smelling sweet and fresh.

Child Health Clinic Here on Wednesday

A child health conference, conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, will be held at the Tumor Clinic Bldg., 400 Broadway, Wednesday, Nov. 17, from 9 to 10 a. m.

These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

These are well child clinics for the maintainence of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the Child Health Conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

In order to avoid overcrowded clinics, an appointment is required for admission to these clinics. Please contact your public health nurse for an appointment at the Ulster County Health Dept. between 9 and 10 a. m., Monday through Friday.

LETTER WRITING

For many people, when they are faced with a wordless sheet of paper and wonder how in the world they will ever fill it, the difficult parts of a letter are the beginning and the closing.

Even one who loves the very sight of your handwriting could not be expected to find pleasure in a letter beginning, "I know I ought to have written sooner, but I haven't had anything to write about." Or one saying "I suppose you have been thinking me very neglectful, but you know how I hate to write letters." Such sentences are written time and again by persons who are utterly unconscious that they are really expressing an unfriendly thought.

One of the difficulties frequently encountered in beginning a letter is that the answer has been so long delayed that it must be begun with an apology —at best an unhappy beginning. However, by merely changing the wording of the above sentences, to "Do you think I have forgotten you entirely? You don't know, Ann, how many letters I have planned to write you," or "Time and time again I have planned to write you but each moment that I saved for myself was always interruped by something."—an opening apology need not be repellent.

It is easy enough to begin a letter if it is to be an answer to one that has just been received. The news contained in it is fresh and the impulse to reply needs no prodding. Nothing can be simpler than to say "Your letter was the most welcome thing the postman has brought for ages," or "You can't imagine, Ann, how glad I was to see an envelope with your handwriting this morning." And then you take up the various subjects in Ann's letter, which certainly should launch you without difficulty upon topics of your own.

Just as the beginning of a letter should give the reader an impression of greeting, so should its ending express friendly or affectionate leave-taking. To end by saying, "Well, I guess you've read enough of this" or "You're probably bored by now so I'd better close" is stupid. When you leave the house of a friend or a member of your family, you don't have to think up an especial sentence in order to say goodbye. Leave-taking in a letter is the same.

How and when to introduce people seems to be troublesome to many. The Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Introductions" gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of this newspaper.

New High School Vote Set Dec. 14; $1,970,000 Total

NEW PALTZ — At a special meeting of the New Paltz Central School Board of Education. held recently, it was decided to present the voters of the district with a proposition to spend $1,970,000 for the purpose of building a new senior high school and making certain renovations to the present central school building so that it can be used as a middle school housing grades five through eight.

Voting will take place in the Central School auditorium on Dec. 14 between the hours of 2 p. m. and 9 p. m.

The proposed building, if approved, will be built on a tract of land on the east side of the South Putt Corners Road which is presently owned by Jack LaFalse. The site is approximately one and one-half miles from the present central school building. Test boring indicate that there will be no problem with rock. The site has been approved by the State Education Department and by the Department of Health.

25 Classrooms

The proposed building would contain 25 classrooms, a comprehensive industrial arts shop, and art room, a mechanical drawing room, a music room, a typing room and two other business rooms, a homemaking room. and a room for large group instruction. It would also provide a two-station gymnasium plus a smaller auxiliary gym, a 3840 square foot library, a 300 seat dining room-study hall divisable into two smaller areas by an operable partition, and a 700 seat auditorium. The lassroom section would be two-storied. It will provide modern facilities for 600 pupils without crowding and is designed to permit orderly expansion in several later stages to an ultimate capacity of 1800 pupils.

If approved at this vote it is anticipated that the building will be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1967, relieveing space shortage which is expected, by that time, to reach 16 classrooms.

It should be pointed out that construction of this building will ease the space problem not only in the high school area but in the elementary school as well since the rooms in the Central School vacated by grades 9 through 12 will then become available for grades 4-5 through 8.

The board of education is hopeful that the community will support it in this effort to relieve this really critical problem of space in the schools. About half of the cost will be financed over 30 years, will come from state aid.

List Schedules

The board of education has set the following date as the final date established by law for voting on the second bond referendum on Dec. 14. It is Saturday, Dec. 4 between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. in the tax collectors office at the Central school.

Other dates established for the convenience of the voters are as follows: Tuesday, Nov 16 between 5 and 7 p. m. in the tax collectors office at the central school. Wednesday, Nov. 17 between 5 and 7 p. m. in the fire house at Esopus.

Monday, Nov. 22 between 5 and 7 p. m. in the Gardiner School .

Anyone who has any questions as to whether they are properly registered to vote may contact Frank Hamilton, business manager at the business office of the central school.

Women Voters Slate Meeting on Tuesday

The New Paltz League of Women Voters have announced the next general meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov 16 in the Town Hall at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Dale Stine, apportionment workshop chairman, will be conducting the main program for the evening. She requests that all members remember to bring the folder on Representation for all Citizens which they received with their monthly bulletin.

The membership will also be asked to consider new proposals for future League study and are asked to bring suggestions to Tuesday's meeting.

ReformedChurchNotes

Stewardship will be the sermon topic at the Reformed Church at New Paltz at the 11 o'clock worship service Sunday morning, November 14th. Visitors and newcomers may attend.

The Junior-High Church School Department of the New Paltz Reformed Church will visit Colgate University at Hamilton this Sunday, Nov. 14. Some 40 students and teachers have signed up for this trip which is in charge of Frank Hamilton, junior-high superintendent. Teachers who will accompany their classes include Mrs. Thomas Barr, Mrs. Bruce Conklin, Robert Corey and Mrs. Harry Cornwell.

The group will travel by bus, leaving the church yard promptly at 6:30 a. m. They plan to attend the service at the Colgate Memorial Chapel at 10:30 a. m. After a picnic lunch, the young people will visit the world-famous Chapel House, which is so designed that it can be set up for any Christian or non-Christian religious service. The junior-high will hold its own worship service there just before leaving for the return trip.

There will not be any junior-high classes in the church school on Sunday. All other departments will meet as usual.

The Ladies Aid of the Reformed Church will meet in the Fireside Room of the Education Building at 2:30 p. m. on Friday, Nov. 19.

Library Tag Day Is Success; $484 Earned

The Elting Memorial Library Association of New Paltz has announced that the annual Tag Day again turned out to be an outstanding success.

Total receipts were $484 which makes it the highest amount contributed on Tag Day for a non-Presidential Election Day.

The chairman of this year's Tag Day Committee, Miss Josephine Palmer was assisted at the various locations in the towns of New Paltz and Gardiner by the following station chairmen: the Mmes. Robert Bassik, Raymond Coats, William Conner Jr., John Glancy, Melvin Head, Clifford Hoppenstedt and Leon Keator.

Alttogether there were 88 volunteers who contributed many long hours of their time at the eight stations on Election Day.

The board of trustees of the library thanked all the volunteers for their efforts as well as all who contributed to the Tag Day.

Reflection Causes Bakery Fire Scare

Fire fighters responded to an alarm shortly after 8 Friday night at Spiesman's Bakery, 39 East Union Street, but a deceptive light proved to be the cause of the alarm.

Fire fighters were summoned at 8:04 when there appeared to be a bright red glow in steam rising from a vent near a neo light at the bakery. Ladders were set up, and it was determined that the red light was a reflection of a neon light from nearby Farber's Market at 42 Chambers Street.

Can Check A-Tests

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) —A large seismic installation established at Tennant Creek in Australia's northern territory will have the capacity to record nuclear tests conducted anywhere in the world, the Australian National University says. The university said it had successfully recorded on Oct. 29 the American underground nuclear explosion in the Aleutian Islands.

Dear Abby . . .

Snorts And Snores!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Apropos snoring mates. Mine snores so loud, it's separate rooms for us. When we travel, we request separate hotel rooms. Separate floors is better, adjoining rooms isn't far enough away from him. It hasn't interfered with our love life, either. A woman who doesn't get her sleep makes a poor mate. She's cranky, irritable and has no energy. Nuts to what people say. I need my sleep.

MILWAUKEE MRS.

• • • • •

DEAR ABBY: If you come up with a remedy for snoring, let me know. I've tried everything. The plastic ear plugs almost punctured my eardrums, and the beeswax ear plugs fell out of my ears and stuck in my hair. My doctor gave me sleeping pills but I'm afraid I'll become adicted. Believe it or not, my husband is a policeman and he is afraid to sleep alone. If I slip out and sleep on the couch, he comes looking for me. This hero is 56 years old.

BROOKLYN

DEAR ABBY: When our family decreased and there was a spare bedroom available. I took it over because my husband's snoring disturbed my sleep.

It was like closing the door on an intimacy of 31 years. Well, Abby, after five years of sleeping apart, my advice to a young bride is, "Don't, under any circumstances, take a room by yourself. Stuff your ears, put a pillow over your head, take a sleeping pill, but don't leave his bed. And don't let him leave yours."

Take it from a 58-year-old woman. Something dies when a man and his wife quit sleeping together. I can't explain it. It's not sex, either. It's something more important. And you'll never get it back. I know. I've tried.

• • • • •

DEAR ABBY: My husband has snored off and on for 33 years and I wouldn't think of trying to cure him. You see, Albert snores only when he has a guilty conscience. After having been kept awake most of the night because he's snored up a storm, I cross-examine him. And sure enough — he's been up to something. Either women or gambling. He's almost 60 now and he's cut down on his snoring. I presume he has less to feel guilty about. I'm sure he still gambles, however.

OLIVA

• • • • •

DEAR ABBY: If my husband only snored in his sleep, I'd be happy. He thrashes around, kicks, hollers, grinds his teeth and swings his fists. I was always black and blue and a nervous wreck from lack of sleep. I went to a doctor and he prescribed tranquilizers for my husband. He refused to take them, so I take them, and it helps a lot.

TRANQUILIZED

• • • • •

DEAR ABBY: You haven't heard snoring until you've heard my little wife snore. She denied it so I had a tape recording made. We sometimes play it for laughs. She sleeps with her mouth open, so when the rackets gets too bad I just reach over and pinch her nose shut and she quits.

MARVIN

• • • • •

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't resist your survey on snoring mates. My husband is a U. S. Congressman, and his snoring is so bad that when he campaigns no one will sleep with him. Once when we were vacationing we stopped at a motel. The manager called us at 2 a. m. asking if he could move us to a cabin away from the others because he had so many complaints from the people around us. He's putting on weight and the heavier he gets, the louder he snores.

USED TO IT

• • • • •

DEAR ABBY: Sure my husband snores, but I am happy to say that separate bedrooms never entered my mind. In my opinion that's the quickest way to a marital break-up. I just accept it as I do any other disturbance, such as noisy neighbors, barking dogs, traffic noise. You can put up with anything if you want to.

Washing corduroy is discussed in the following article by Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent:

Corduroy is one of the original easy-care fabrics — popular long before the "wash-and-wear" phrase was ever invented. This durable material can be both washed and dried by machine and should need little or no ironing, if propertly handled.

Light color corduroys can be laundered in hot soap or detergent suds and rinses. However, if the garment is not heavily soiled, warm water is preferable because it seems to encourage the softness of the pile. Therefore, it is better to wash corduroy often in the lightly soiled stage instead of waiting until deep soil necessitates using hot water, prolonged machine agitation, or hard rubbing.

Dark colors, which have a tendency to bleed, should always be washed alone or with other dark pieces in warm suds and rinses. When washing colorful new garments for the first time, it is worth while to put them through a series of clean suds and rinses to flush away excess dye. This "establishes" the color and helps to keep subsequent bleeding to a minimum.

Since lint has a definite tendency to cling to surface pile, corduroy should be washed in a load with other pieces only if the latter are of similar color tone. As an added precaution, always turn corduroy inside out before laundering. And be sure to empty or clean out the lint traps of both washer and dryer before laundering corduroy. It is also wise to wipe the inside of both machines with a sudsy cloth—especially if a previously laundered load included such linty items as turkish towels or cotton underwear.

Before washing, pre-treat any especially soiled areas by brushing or finger-rubbing with thick soap or detergent suds; also remove all spots and stains—preferably as promptly as possible after they occur. Some corduroys are now available with spot-resistant finishes — which means that spots and stains can be removed quickly and easily, simply by sponging the surface of the fabric with a sponge wrung out of warm suds.

After pre-treating, launder the entire piece in warm suds and rinses. Thorough rinsing is particularly important for corduroys — such as raincoats and snowsuits — which have been treated with a water-repellent finish. The reason is that suds act as a wetting agent, and any left in the fabric will cut down on water-repellency.

To soften the fabric and fluff up the pile of corduroy, add fabric softner to the final rinse each time an item is laundered. These fabric softeners or conditioners — designed to make fabrics softer, fluffier, and easier to iron —are particularly effective for increasing the bulk or "loft of pile fabrics such as corduroy.

To prevent "setting in" deep wrinkles, try to avoid prolonged spinning or twisting. If a wringer is used, make sure that it is loosely adjusted and that corduroy "wash" is straightened before going through the rollers.

Corduroy may be safely dried in a clothes dryer at a medium heat setting; in fact, this is beneficial in fluffing up the pile. Be sure to remove such items while still slightly damp. To help retain the shoulder shape of shirts, jackets, and dresses, drape them over hangers to complete drying. For line-drying, first straighten and smooth each piece to its original size and shape; then use both hands to snap all lines of stitching taut.

Whether corduroy is dried by machine or line, follow up by shaking it well and then brushing in one direction with a soft brush to fluff up the pile. Pressing should not be necessary; but, if desired, hold a steam iron just slightly above the right surface of the fabric so that the steam can "coax" up the nap. To use a regular iron, first cover the corduroy with a damp cloth, and then hold the heated iron just above the press cloth to create steam.

Dirksen Looks to Attire

To Visit 343 Lodge Monday

JOHN A. SMITH

The district deputy grand master of the Greene - Ulster District, F & AM, will make his official visit at 7:30 p. m. Monday to Rondout Lolge 343, in the Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue.

He is John A. Smith, of Windham, who before being designated district deputy grand master for 1965-66 served as worshipful master of Mountain Lodge 529 F&AM, Windham in 1948.

Worshipful Master J. Wesley Drake of Rondout Lodge invited lodge brothers to attend and hear the message from the district deputy grand master and the Grand Master, Most Worshipful Clarence J. Henry. James L. Radcliffe junior warden of the host lodge, will be in charge of refreshments, which will be served in the dining room after the district deputy's talk.

Right Worshipful Smith has held many important positions in the governing body of his home lodge and served on the Degree Team and numerous committees of Mountain Lodge. He also holds an executive position in the Windham Bank.

A native of Prattsville, he is well - known to many as vice president and cashier of the Windham National Bank. The Windham Bank merged a short time ago with the First Trust Company of Albany, and Smith remained as a vice president of the Trust Company.

The district deputy joined Mountain Lodge in 1943 and five years later became master of the lodge. His Masonic and community activities have continued through the years.

Clara Barton was a clerk in the U.S. Patent Office from 1854 until she resigned to become a volmunteer nurse in the Civil War.

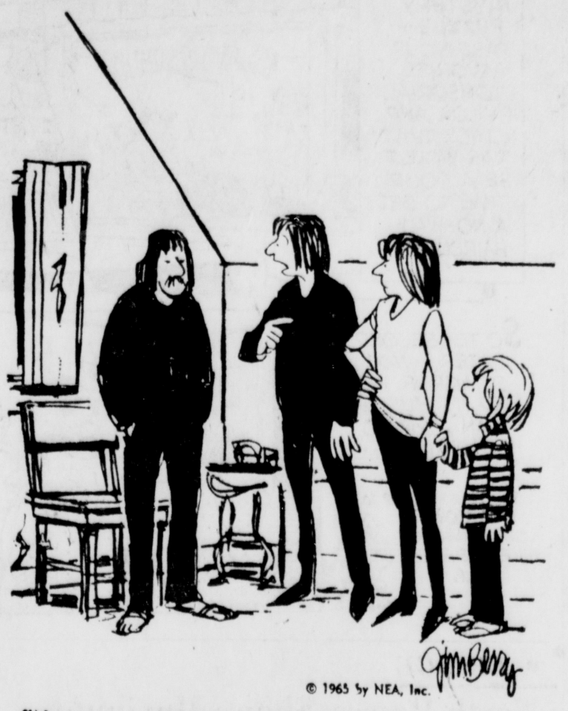

Why We Say--

. . . A landmark

This expression, which aptly fits a small rundown hotel room today, was started by sailors. The original "hole in the wall" was a natural perforation at the southeast extremity of the Island of Abaco, one of the Bahamas. It was used as a resting place as "a hole in the wall" might be today.

Ulster Already in Line

Appointive System Is Ordered for Welfare

Under a new state law welfare commissioners will be appointed rather than elected as most county welfare commissioners have been in the past.

Several years ago Ulster County changed over to the appointive method rather than the elective system and Commissioner of Public Welfare Joseph Fitzsimmons has been serving by appointment from the board of supervisors. His present five-year term will expire Dec. 31, 1965, and he has been re-appointed by the board for another five year term beginning Jan. 1, 1966.

Ulster One of 19

Ulster County is one of the 19 counties in the state which is presently under the appointive system. Of the 65 commissioners, 46 are elected officials.

New York State has been the only state in which this has been an elective position, and with no qualifications. In New York State, public welfare is administered by local welfare departments to 800,000 recipients at an annual cost of $800 million.

The State Board of Social Welfare has announced it has established training and experience qualifications for the state's 65 local public welfare commissioners, and has notified all appointing bodies and officers of these qualifications.

Under the new law, present elected local public welfare commissioners will remain in office until their term expires. Local appointing authorities must then appoint commissioners who meet the new training and experience requirements.

Local commissioners who are in office on Dec. 31, 1965 will be deemed to be qualified for their present positions.

The minimum requirements are based on the size of programs and services. Four groups have been established of public welfare districts based on size of caseload. The minimum of caseloads under 1,000 cases come in Group I.

Ulster County will be in Group II, where caseloads of over 1,000 and less than 5,000 cases are classified.

Group III is districts with caseloads over 5,000 and less than 50,000. Group IV is districts with caseloads of over 50,000. New York city only.

The new law for the first time makes all public welfare districts eligible for reimbursement for commissioners' salaries. The setting of such salaries will remain a local responsibility.

The new legislation and the Board's implementing action carry out a major recommendation of the Moreland Commission on Welfare and the Citizens Committee on Welfare Chests (Maull Committee). The new law was endorsed by the New York Public Welfare Association, the official organization of local welfare officials in the State.

Rochester Hikes Tuition for 1966

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Tuition for most undergraduate and graduate students at the University of Rochester will be increased effective Sept. 1, 1966 the university announced Friday.

Students at the River Campus will pay $2,000 instead of the current $1,800 tuition charge. The River Campus includes most of the university's departments.

Other tuition increases include:

Eastman School of Music, $1,500 to $1,750; School of Medicine and Denistry, $1,800 to $2,000 for graduate students; and the Department of Nursing, $1,100 to $1,250 for undergraduates.

Tution for undergraduate students in the medical and dental schools will not be increased, the University said.

Governor Visits Plattsburgh for 'Pulse of People'

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)— Gov. Rockefeller is out to get the "pulse of the people" and in this Northeastern New York City the pulse beats throb about apples and mudflats, among other things.

The Republican governor's visit here Friday was the second of 15 trips he has planned to hear citizens' views on state problems.

Industrial, labor and community - development leaders told Rockefeller that apple - growers were hampered this year by a lack of apple pickers.

The shortage of workers, they said, was the result of a federal restriction on the importation of foreign laborers.

While on a tour of Lake Champlain, Rockefeller heard complaints from local officials of mudflats that they said were created by wastes from papermills.

The governor said he would discuss the problem with the State Public Works Department.

At a luncheon, Rockefeller talked about Tuesday's power electrical power failure.

After the discussion, the governor introduced James A. FitzPatrick, chairman of the State Power Authority.

FitzPatrick is a native of Plattsburgh, one of the few cities in the state that was not affected by the power failure.

90 at Program

Ninety boys enjoyed the Special Day program at the YMCA Thursday, Veterans Day.

Under the supervision of L. I. Van Heusen, youth director and Leaders Club members Ricardo Esposito, Larry Flowers and Alan Van Heusen, both gyms were used for relays and games.

Following a recreational swim the boys ate 240 hot dogs, seven cases of soda, 90 bags potato chips. A full length movie, It Came From Beneath the Sea, was shown.

The final event was the "Penny Swim" when hundreds of pennies were tossed into the pool for the boys to keep if they could recover them. This event was held for beginner and advanced swimmers.

The next Special Day will be Friday Nov. 26. The movie will be Have Rocket, Will Travel. The Penny Swim will be repeated. Tuna delights also will be served.

These Special Days are conducted by the YMCA, a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

UNCLE Star Had Faith TV Show Would Hit Top

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It came as no surprise to Robert Vaughn that "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." hit the top of an audience rating recently.

"My only surprise," said the star of the far-out spy show, "was that it didn't happen sooner."

Vaughn is an erudite, outspoken chap who has come up the hard way in television. He was certain that "U.N.C.L.E." would be a success from the moment he read the pilot script. His confidence remained unshaken when the show scored 92nd in early audience ratings last season.

"I knew that the rating didn't really reflect the popularity of the show," he comments. "I started going out on personal appearances the week after the series went on the air, and I could see the impact on urban areas. The crowds, the fan clubs, the standings in local newspaper polls — these things convinced me we could make a go of it."

NBC remained confident as well and refused to panic, an extraordinary reaction for a network with a show in trouble. As soon as the series was shifted from the murderous Monday night opposition of "Lucy" and Andy Griffith to the more vulnerable Tuesday night spot, the climb began.

This season NBC again played checkers with "U.N.C.L.E.," moving it to Friday night at 10. It was feared that teen-agers would desert the show for dates.

"Apparently that hasn't happened" reported Vaughn. "The kids seem to be having parties in homes, and an hour is spent in watching our show."

Vaughn seems to take everything calmly. He will not be stampeded into anything, such as cashing in on his television popularity to make a quick movie.

Slate Thursday Hearing on Case Involving Kaplan

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court hearing was set today for Thursday on a motion to dismiss an alleged statement by Carl Kaplan, former police chief of Fallsburgh, N.Y., who is accused with Assemblyman Hyman E. Mintz of conspiring to bribe a detective.

Justice Arthur Markewich ordered the hearing after Jacques M. Schiffer, Kaplan's attorney asked for a postponement until Dec. 6.

Markewich said Schiffer indicated last week he would be available for the Kaplan case next week. The judge ordered him to be prepared to start the hearing on Thursday.

Schiffer is seeking to have Kaplan's statement dismissed on grounds that it was obtained by ex-chief's constitutional rights.

Mintz, 56, and Kaplan, 52, were indicted June 2 on charges of attempting to bribe a detective on the staff of Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan to learn what evidence had been presented to a grand jury investigating reports of a $100,000 bribe in the licening in 1959 of the Finger Lakes Race Track in Canandaigua, N.Y.

Notes Migrating

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Americans are migrating to Canada by increasing numbers, the Canadian Immigration Service says, but more Canadians are coming south.

More than 13,500 persons have entered Canada from the United States by permanent residence in 1965, compared to 12,565 in 1964. Three times as many Canadians annually settle in the United States, the service said.

Sells Dairy Farm

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—There still is 200-acre dairy farm within the limits of Lansing a city of 113,000 persons, but the cows are just about to leave the area to the people. Martin H. Kahres, one of the proprietors, says he has sold the property to real estate developers.

Caloric Gas Range 3 Years or 3000 Meals Guarantee

KINGSTON, N. Y.—Scholar's local franchised Caloric dealer, disclosed today that all Caloric gas ranges now carry a new "3 - Years - or - 3000 - Meals Guarantee."

"This means," said Mr. Scholar, "that Caloric now guarantees all of its ranges to the original purchaser for 3 years or 3000 meals, whichever comes first."

All gas components and mechanical parts are guaranteed for the period. "In addition," Mr. Scholar declared, "all gas burners are guaranteed for the lifetime of the range. This includes the new Ultra-Ray broiler which converts gas energy into penetrating, deep-heat infra-red rays."

The new guarantee is more than an extended warranty. It is, as its name implies, an actual guarantee, and Caloric's new policy is believed to be the first of its kind in the major appliance industry in recent years. "Full details," Mr. Scholar said, "are covered in a leaflet on the guarantee which is available from Scholar's located at 661 Broadway, Kingston.

North Passes, Shows Maximum

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

As a windup to the series of articles on limit raises, we will discuss showing maximum support after passing.

You can't use two no-trump here. There is too much need for it as a normal response by a passed hand. However, there is one bid that is readily available. That is the bid of three no-trump. You just can't pass a hand that warrants a real three no-trump bid after partner opens in third or fourth seat, but you can pass a hand that has tremendous support for partner's suit.

Today's North hand is one. He has almost enough for an opening bid and when his partner opens with one spade, North wants to make sure of reaching a spade game or slam. He shows this by jumping to three no-trump!

Remember that this particular three no-trump bid is a force to four spades and shows no desire to play in no-trump.

The hand is a lay-down grand slam because South can draw trumps with two leads and eventually ruff out two diamonds and a club. It also is not likely to be reached without use of this Jacoby convention but is rather easy to reach with it.

South's four-diamond bid shows the ace and invites a slam. North's four heart bid shows that ace and accepts the invitation. The five club call is another cue bid. The bids of five diamonds, five hearts and six clubs are all meant to show second round control and this makes it easy for South to jump to the grand slam.

Ex-N-M Worker Gives His Views On Power System

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)—A man who worked on the Niagara Mohawk Power project in 1898 says the system's "piecemeal construction" and time caused Tuesday's crippling electrical blackout in the Northeast.

Roger W. Babson, now 90, made that observation Friday at his winter home here.

Babson, who said he worked on the project as an engineer, said the sprawling system was built over a long period of years, starting before 1898.

"I have a feeling it will have to be wholly rebuilt," he said.

Albany Doctor Is Given Glasgow Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elke Sommer, 25 - year - old German actress, suffered leg and back injuries Thursday when a car backed into her, police said.

She refused an offer of medical treatment and said she would see her own physician, officers said.

New Medical Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association's council on education says 14 new medical schools are on the planning boards for the next five years. The new schools will raise to 101 the number of medical schools operating in this country.

Missing Pair Is Causing Woes For U. S. Security

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—Two U.S. Army specialists, missing from their posts in Germany for weeks, are causing headaches for American security authorities.

One is Chief Warrant Officer Spencer D. Harris Jr., a nuclear technician of Penn Yan, N.Y.

Harris disappeared on furlough in the United States after delivering classified material to an Army depot at Seneca, N.Y.

A U.S. Army spokesman here said Thursday Harris left Germany on Aug. 25, made his delivery, and then went on leave. On Sept. 21, he cabled for an extension of his leave. At that time he was staying at the Houston Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Harris was due to return to his Pirmasens, Germany, post on Sept. 30. He failed to report and was listed as absent without leave. In Fredericksburg, Va., his mother said he had visited there, leaving Sept. 28.

The West German mass circulation newspaper, Bild Zeitung, reported that Harris was fully informed on the location and plans for all U.S. nuclear weapons stored in Germany. It said he also had knowledge of nuclear tactis to be used in case of emergency.

The second missing soldier is Sgt. 1.C. Glen R. Rohrer, 44, of West Allis, Wis., who apparently defected behind the Iron Curtain last August.

According to an article in the Overseas Weekly, which cites high intelligence sources, Rohrer crossed into Czechoslovakia with top secret information and the names of hundreds of Western agents and contacts operating in Communist countries.

As a result, many operatives have been pulled back into the West, said the weekly, a private newspaper published in Frankfurt and sold to U.S. military forces in Europe. The publication quoted an intelligence official as saying:

"Rohrer cost us at least five to 10 years of hard work. It'll take a long time to replace the agents and contacts that he blew to the other side."

CD Counseling For Home Set November 17th

The Ulster County Home Demonstration Department will sponsor a Civil Defense Home counseling program Nov. 17, from 1 to 3 p. m. at St. John's Episcopal Church, 209 Albany Avenue.

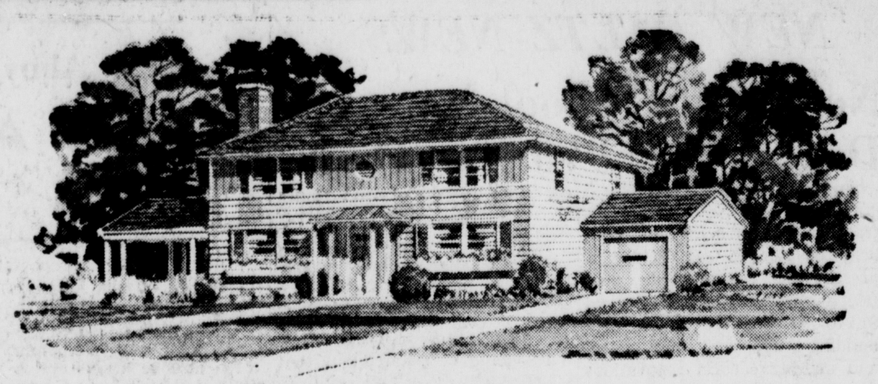

This program will be conducted by Robert Hallock of the New York State Civil Defense Commission. The subject matter of Hallock's talk will be the protection of the rural farm and non-farm population from the dangers of radioactive fallout.

This program will stress the fact that in most cases it is the housewife who will have to taken the first steps to protect her family.

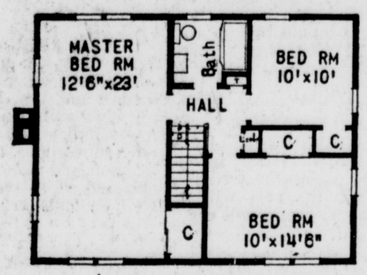

Among the subjects to be discussed will be the various types of shelters, food storage, personal hygiene, costs and other pertinent factors involved in protection from radioactive fallout.

Hallock will present a film and a lecture. Following the lecture there will be a question and answer period.

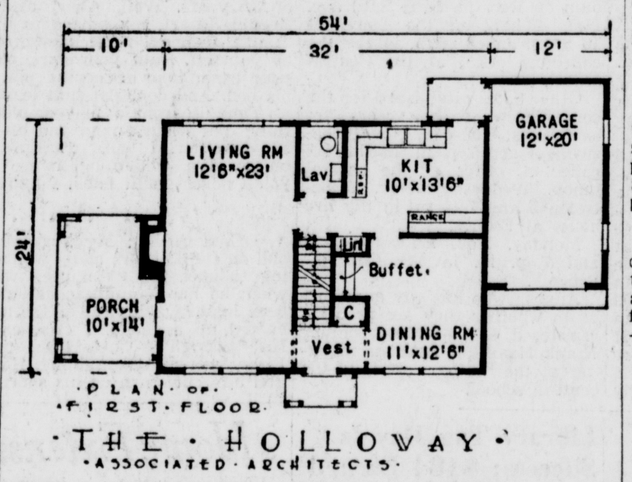

This should be a most interesting and instructive meeting. The public is invited.

Georgian Type Home Design Modernized

Associated Architects today present a home plan that is a modern adaption of the long-respected Georgian design, "The Holloway."

In bringing a Georgian type of house up to date, all of the original beauty is retained. What has been added is based on architectural experience gained recently. In other words, comfort and convenience have been successfully grafted to a lovely home that has weathered the years.

In all there are six big, useful rooms on two floors. For the utmost in privacy, all three bedrooms are placed upstairs together with a full-size bath.

The master bedroom is practically unsurpassable, from its size (12½ by 23 feet) to its spacious closet. A pair of linen closets in the hall round out the second floor.

Downstairs we find that the living room, like the master bedroom extends the full width of the house; in fact, both are equal in size. The features of this impressive living room include a handsome fireplace and splendid window area, including one big picture window at the rear.

"The Holloway" has a full size dining room, 11 by 12½ feet, large enough to furnish with a full dining suite. No need to invest in a buffet, however, because this plan calls for one that is built in, right in its own niche.

The kitchen, of course, connects directly to the dining room, and — one of those small but important touches — the range is placed at the closest point to the dining room, which means that hot food remains hot when it reaches the table. Other appliances and counters and cabinets are nicely arranged to reduce the number of steps taken by the housewife. This thoughtful planning by the architects actually means miles less walking every few months.

If you enter "The Holloway" through the front door you find yourself in a vestibule, which contains a coat closet for convenience's sake. Another door connects the covered side porch with the living room and a third door, at the rear, links the garage with the kitchen.

Incidentally, there is a lavette on the first floor, placed directly beneath the bath on the upper story to economize on plumbing costs. Saves long runs of pipe during installation.

You'll want to see plans for "The Holloway" for yourself. They can be obtained at moderate cost and should you decide to build, the same blueprints may be used in actual construction.

When ordering please use the accompanying coupon. Note that plans include a basement. The living area of this attractive home is 1,400 square feet; garage and porch add another 340 square feet. Cubage, including basement, is 28,000 cubic feet.

Your order will bring you at no extra cost, a set of specifications to help protect your financial investment.

Perhaps you prefer brick or cinder block to wood siding. The plans show how all three excellent materials may be used.

Space Expander

Flat, bare walls make a room look smaller. That's why so many decorators suggest wall paneling for small rooms. Softwood boards are especially recommended, providing the texture needed. Favorites are western hemlock, pine, cedar and fir.

Pretty Protector

Want to beautify clothes closets and add moth repellent at the same time? Line the closets with cedar boards. Either western red cedar or incense cedar will do well, installed without finish of any kind.

Post Put to Use

If a structural member is interfering with arrangement of space, it can sometimes be made part of a divider, or covered by a built-in, or used as the center pole of a circular bench.

More than one-third of the children killed in home fires in the United States annually are alone in the house when the fire starts.

How Regional Power Nets Are Set Up

Power is made in one main way.

A core moves through the lines of force of an electromagnet and electricity is generated along a wire.

A power generator can be turned with---

Steam from coal.

Water power.

Even our most elite power source,

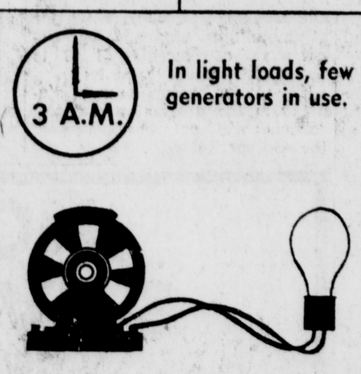

nuclear energy,

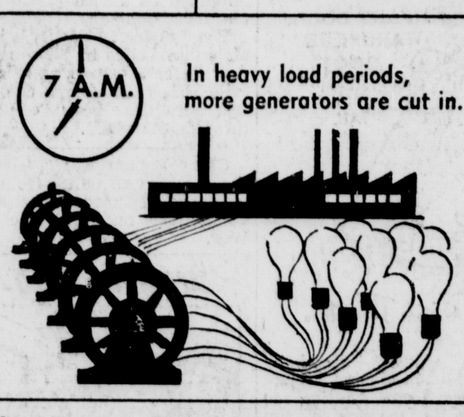

generates power by creating steam, just as coal does.

Electricity must be created at the moment it is needed for use. There are only comparatively inefficient methods of storing it.

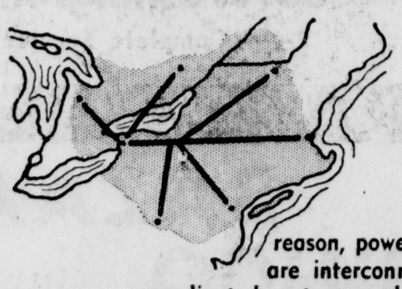

Thus →

In light loads, few generators in use.

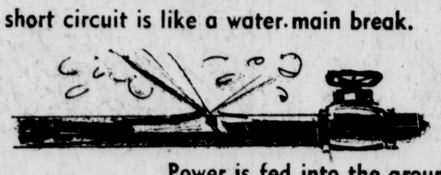

In heavy load periods, more generators are cut in.

For this reason, power sources are interconnected in complicated systems and the load is switched from hour to hour and location to location according to needs.

A short circuit is like a water-main break.

Power is fed into the ground.

In abnormal events like this, safety equipment automatically cuts out generators before damage occurs. In the Big Blackout, the loss was so great that the whole interstate system was paralyzed.

Between You'n'Me

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

The National Broadcasting Company's slow burn at the colleges for not letting them get into the bidding for the next television contract turns up this litle interesting fact: The network offered the NCAA a million bucks just to negotiate the rights to the Saturday games and was turned down. . . .

And Variety's blast at Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL for lousing up his projected two-network deal was unwarranted. Even without competitive bidding, CBS would be willing to add a million or more to the kitty for the NFL package. . . .

Leo Durocher

Nothing more tongue-in-cheek than Frankie Frisch's congratulatory message to Leo Durocher after the Lip had been hired to jazz up the Chicago Cubs. "I hope," said the Old Flash, "he wins as many games for the Cubs as he won on television last year." Durocher was a notorious second-guesser as a commentator on the Game of the Week. . . .

Art Modell's succinct comment about a merger of the pro football leagues: "Who needs them? They say my Cleveland Browns ought to play Buffalo. I fill up the stadium every Sunday anyhow." . . .

"Knockout!" is the film tribute to Jimmy Jacobs' prowess as a collector of old fight films, and how the former national handball champ turned a hobby into a business. It includes rare scenes of the Jack Johnson-Jess Willard fight in Havana. Jimmy gave a Sydney, Asutralia, collector his own prints of Tommy Burns' bouts Down Under, plus $5,000, for the rare film. . . .

Although the Johnson-Willard film shows the knockout punch by big Jess in the 26th round, it doesn't show Johnson falling, only flat on his back shading his eyes . . . because photogs at filmside ruined the sequence by setting off blinding powder flashes while Johnson was toppling. . . .

Bill DeWitt's signing of Don Heffner to manage Cincinnati is no mystery. He has a sensational attachment for the old St. Louis Browns, though he'd deny it. Old Brown farmhands include farm director Jim McLaughlin, batting practice pitcher and coaches Ray Shore and Frank Oceak. "Any time you turn around," says a man close to the scene, "there's an old Brownie around — or someone who lived in St. Louis during Bill's time there."

Coach Sid Gillman of the San Diego Chargers may be a 54-year-old grandpop, but no old fogie. He's a progressive jazz buff who plays tapes during training camp and has had such as Cannonball Adderley sitting on the Charger bench. . . .

Sports note sent by Tom Tiede from Viet Nam: "There was this fellow Charles who broke his back and was in critical condition. But he spent 90 per cent of the time telling me how he was going to become a sports writer when his 20 years were up. Stretched out in traction, this guy was less worried about his back than he was about the Dodgers winning the World Series." . . .

And a topkick stuck 100 miles in Viet Cong territory insisted Tiede take a picture of him and his Georgia Bulldogs football pennant. . . .

Gale Sayers, the sensational Chicago Bear rookie back, explained why he didn't sign last year with Kansas City, though Lamar Hunt personally pursued him. "I felt uncomfortable," said Gale, "having a millionaire open doors for me." . . .

Between you'n'me, not many people around the AFL know that John Hadl, the quarterback of the Chargers, wears contact lenses. Puts on tinted shades when the sun shines, too bright. . . .

Kentucky Favored In Night Tilt

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kentucky, although a two touchdown favorite, has two major causes for concern when it places its hopes for a major bowl bid and its ranking among the nation's college football elite on the line against Houston tonight.

First, there is the danger of looking past the oft-beaten but highly dangerous Cougars to next week's game with traditional rival Tennessee, the country's eighth-ranked team. Kentucky, 6-2, currently is No. 10.

The second cause for concern is Warren McVea. McVea, one of the most widely heralded halfbacks in Texas football history, was a distinct disappointment in his first few games in this, his sophomore season.

But he broke loose on touchdown plays covering 80 and 84 yards in Houston's 17-3 upset of Mississippi last week and took six passes for 201 yards, an indication he may have come of age. The performance has the Cougars, 3-5 for the season, gunning for a second straight upset, an upset that could kill Kentucky hopes for a bid to the Sugar or Orange Bowl.

Kentucky's game in Houston's Astrodome is the only Saturday night game involving a ranked team. All the rest play this afternoon. There were no major games Friday night.

Several Key Tilts

The big ones this afternoon involved Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska, ranked 1-2-3 respectively, each 8-0 and each gunning for a conference title.

Michigan State could clinch the Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl by beating Indiana, while Arkansas and Nebraska sought at least a tie for the Southwest and Big Eight titles. Arkansas played Southern Methodist and Nebraska played Oklahoma State.

The schedule for the rest of the Top Ten had No. 4 Notre Dame playing North Carolina, No. 5 Alabama playing South Carolina, No. 6 Southern Cal vs. Pitt, No. 7 UCLA against Stanford, Tennessee vs. Mississippi and No. 9 Missouri against Oklahoma.

Other major games tonight include Mississippi State at LSU, Memphis State at North Texas State, Southern Mississippi at Louisiana Tech and New Mexico at New Mexico State.

Sports Calendar For West Point

The sports calendar at West Point from Saturday, Nov. 20 through Saturday, Nov. 27, is as follows:

Saturday, Nov. 20 — Cross Country: Army vs. Navy at Annapolis, Md. Soccer: Army vs. Navy at Annapolis, Md. 150-pound football: Army vs. Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J., 11 a. m.

Wednesday, Nov. 24 — Final Army Quarterback Club meeting of the year, 8 p. m., north auditorium of Thayer Hall. Highlights will include films of Army-Wyoming game and a thorough scouting report on Navy.

Saturday, Nov. 27 — Football: Army vs. Navy at Philadelphia, 1:30 p. m.

67 Straight Wins

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jefferson City High School extended its record to 67 consecutive football victories by beating Springfield Hillcrest 13-0 Friday night.

The game completed Jefferson City's seventh straight undefeated, untied season. The Jays havn't been beaten since Oct. 30, 1958.

REACHING FOR RECORDS

All-Star Teams Due Next Week

All-star football teams in the DCSL and UCAL, as selected by coaches in the two leagues, will appear next week in the Freeman sports pages.

The All-DCSL squad will be published on Tuesday and the All-UCAL team will be in Wednesday's edition. First team members will receive Freeman certificates, suitable for framing.

Members of the DUSO Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association will meet on Monday, Nov. 29 at Chic's Rendezvous in Kingston to select an All-DUSO team.

Sweepers Sponsor Jay's New Film

"Silver Skis", John Jay's latest full-length color film production, will be presented by the Trail Sweepers Ski Club Thursday, Dec. 2, at 7:45 p. m. in the Kingston High School auditorium.

Jay, now celebrating his 25th year in the ski film business, will appear in person with his movie.

The showing of John Jay productions has been a successful annual fund raising event of the Trail Sweepers for the last four years. The profit from this event is used to support the club's many active programs such as Ski Education, the Junior program and racing.

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from club members or obtained at the door. Since the show is usually a sellout, it is advisable to obtain tickets in advance. Ed Ford, 31 Groff Street, Kingston, is chairman of the ticket sale.

To Miss Brown Game

NEW YORK (AP) — End Andy Stynchula and tackle John LoVetere, two of the regulars on the New York Giants' defensive line, will miss the game with the Browns at Cleveland Sunday because of leg injuries.

Green Bay, Baltimore In Top NFL Contests

By ED SCHUYLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Green Bay's suddenly punchless Packers hope to get back on the track Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams while the possibly Unitas-less Baltimore Colts figure to have their hands full with the Minnesota Vikings.

The Packers, one game back of the first place Colts in the National Football League's Western Division are favored to defeat Los Angeles, the division doormat. But their pass protection had better improve or it could be a long afternoon for them in Milwaukee.

Quarterback Johnny Unitas injured his back last Sunday when the Colts ran their record to 7-1 with their sixth straight victory, 26-21 over the Chicago Bears, and is a doubtful starter against the Vikings —winners of five of their last six.

In other NFL games, Eastern plays host to New York in a rematch, the Bears are at home against St. Louis, San Francisco plays at Detroit, the Eagles host Washington at Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh plays in Dallas.

The American Football League card features the San Diego Chargers, Western Division leaders, at home against Kansas City and Eastern leader Buffalo at Oakland.

Denver plays at Houston and New York is at Boston in the other games.

Green Bay will need good pass protection because it figures to be unable to run wild against the Rams' front four of Lamar Lundy, Dave Jones, Merlin Olsen and Roosevelt Grier. Packer quarterback Bart Starr had three passes intercepted in the 31-10 loss to Chicago two weeks ago, and was thrown 11 times for 109 yards in losses in the 12-7 defeat by Detroit last Sunday.

Cleveland also has injury problems but is a solid favorite to ring up its second victory of the season against the Giants and bring its record to 7-2.

St. Louis, losers of two of its last three games, visits Chicago for the first time for a league game since moving from there in 1959 and finds itself an underdog to the Bears. The Cards trail the Browns by one game. The Bears are even at 4-4 and in fourth place in the West, a game back of Detroit and Minnesota.

San Diego is rated over Kansas City although the Chiefs tied the Chargers 10-10 earlier in the season at San Diego. The Chargers lead their division with a 6-1-2 mark. The Chiefs are loaded with talent but only have a 4-4-1 mark and are third behind the Chargers and Oakland.

Buffalo holds a 2½-game lead in the East with a 7-2 record but could get a real fight from Oakland, noted for late-season charges and still hopeful of overtaking San Diego. Oakland has a 5-3-1 record.

Moon Glitter Wins Roosevelt Feature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moon Glitter defeated the favored Wiscoy Rebel by three-quarters of a length Friday night to capture the $4,000 invitational pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

The winner covered the mile in 2:03 2-5 and paid $20.40. Steady Move finished third.

The victory was the ninth in 25 starts for owner Charl Schultze of Portsmouth, N.H.

Other harness activity:

Batavia Downs — Hawk Hanover ($6) won by a neck over Anthony W. in the $2,500 feature trot. The time was 2:04 4-5. Lofty Hanover was third.

Saratoga Raceway — Potomac Beauty ($10) went the mile in 2:09 4-5 to win the $1,200 feature trot. Ingenious was second and General Sampson, third, in a photo finish.

Casey Holds News Conference, Answers Questions About Job

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think we may take in the World's Fair and make a stadium for 250,000 and put a dome over it as soon as we get better players."

Casey Stengel, retired manager of the New York Mets, said that Friday.

"I walked too much at first and got sore. Now I'm taking better care of myself. I'm going out socially a little. They let me out two nights. But I'm not dancing yet, and I can't walk five miles or take a running course."

Casey Stengel said that, too.

Casey Stengel also said some other things, all in a long distance news conference from his home in Glendale, Calif., in which he explained his new job with the Mets.

His remark about the World's Fair and a dome was the way he answered a question about his opinion of a proposed dome for Shea Stadium, home of the perennial last-place Mets.

His statement on dancing was in reply to a query about his health. The 75-year-old Stengel decided to give up managing after he fractured his left hip in a fall last July.

His new duties — as a scout — will keep him in California where he will not have to stray far from home in the Los Angeles suburb.

"It's my job," he said, "to cover all 20 American and National League clubs and check on the physical condition and the playing condition of these players. If they (the Mets) want my opinion on any ballplayer, I'll say yes or no."

The master of the nonsequitor also touched on one of his favorite topics—why aspiring young players should want to play for the Mets instead of any other team.

"If you're a young man, I don't know why you wouldn't go to a first class club like the Mets and let 11 million people see you instead of going to some other club and waiting five or six years before you can make it."

Then Lou Niss, the Mets' traveling secretary, took the telephone, and Casey asked him about a list of the players' winter addresses. Told it had been sent to him, Stengel yelled:

"Edna!. Edna!...I don't know if she's upstairs or not. Edna (Mrs. Stengel) has cleaned up the place, and I don't know if I have it or not."

Philly Tops Boston, 123-114; Lakers Defeat N.Y. Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers, who came from far back several times last season to whip the champion Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association, did it again Friday night.

Down 33-18, Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Cunningham and Wally Jones rallied the 76ers to a 123-114 home court victory over the Celtics. The victory snapped Boston's five-game winning streak and also knocked the Celts out of first place in the Eastern Division, with the 76ers regaining the top spot.

Two free throws by Guy Rodgers after time had run out gave the San Francisco Warriors a 103-102 victory over Detroit on the Pistons' court and kept the Warriors on top in the Western Division.

Baylor Wins It

Elgin Baylor's free throw with 14 seconds left gave the Los Angeles Lakers a 107-106 triumph over the New York Knicks in the other NBA game scheduled. The game was played in Minneapolis, the former home of the Lakers, as a charity for a high school.

Starting the last quarter ahead 83-81 the 76ers pulled away on 12 points by Hal Greer and 10 by Chamberlain. Greer finished with 28 points, Chamberlain with 27 and Cunningham with 26 for Philadelphia. Chamberlain also outrebounded Bill Russell of Boston 33-32. Sam Jones led the Celtics with 36 points, including 17 in the third period.

Bill Buntin's tap-in gave Detroit a 102-101 lead over San Francisco with only eight seconds left before Rodgers was fouled in the last second. Awarded three chances to make two shots, he missed the first, but dropped in the second to tie the score and then swished in the third to win the game.

Nate Thurmond led San Francisco with 24 points. Eddie Miles had 21 for the Pistons, who lost their fifth straight.

New York led Los Angeles 99-94 with only 4½ minutes left, but the Lakers tied it at 100-100 and again at 106-106 on Baylor's basket with a minute to go. Walt Bellamy then fouled Baylor with 14 seconds left and the former Seattle All-America made good on one of two free throws to win for the Lakers.

Jerry West was high for the Lakers with 29 points, Dick Barnett for the Knicks with 31.

Philadelphia plays at New York tonight with Detroit at Boston, Baltimore at Cincinnati and San Francisco at St. Louis.

U. S. Is Leading World Skeet Title

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The United States held the unofficial team title and went gunning for the individual crown in the world skeet shooting championships today.

Germany's Karl Wimhier, five-time national champion of his country, shot a perfect 100 for the lead in the opening day's firing Friday at the Lo Curro range. The championship will be decided with rounds of 50 today and Sunday.

Chile's Jorge Jottar was second with 99. Air Force Capt. Strother Shumate of the Lackland AFB, San Antoniq, Tex., and Venezuela's Guillermo Raydan were tied for third with 98 each. Airman 2.C James Prall of Bridgeport, Conn., and Robert Rodale of Allentown, Pa., each had 95. Marine Sgt. Allan Morrison of Augusta, Ga., had 93.

Rodale was the clutch shooter in the Yanks' team triumph that required two shootoffs. The only civilian on the team, Rodale had two perfect rounds of 25 in the extra firing.

The U.S., Chile and Venezuela tied for first at 381. Only the two top shooters from each team competed in the shootoffs. The Americans and Chileans tied at 49 and eliminated Venezuela. In the second round of firing, Shumate and Rodale each hit all 25 of their birds while the Chileans each missed twice.

The International Shooting Union, governing body of the sport, only recognizes the individual shooting for the championship in this competition. The teams, however, add the scores for unofficial honors.

Sports Album

SEPT. 29, 1954—When Vic Wertz hit it, the 52,751 in attendance knew, or thought they knew, it was a two-run clout. And two runs would just about sew it up for Cleveland this late in the game—eighth inning, opening tilt of the World Series.

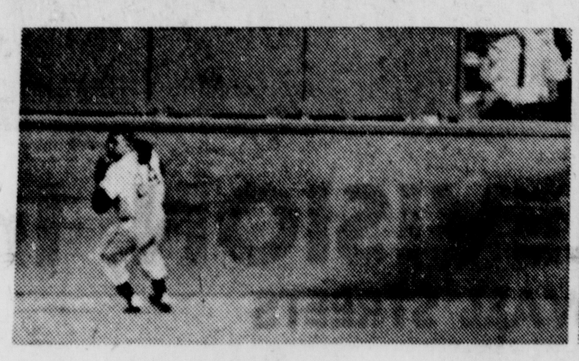

Of course, the hit might possibly mean more than that for the Indians, who came into the classic on the strength of a record of 111 regular season wins. It could break the backs of the National League Giants and pave the way for an eventual championship.

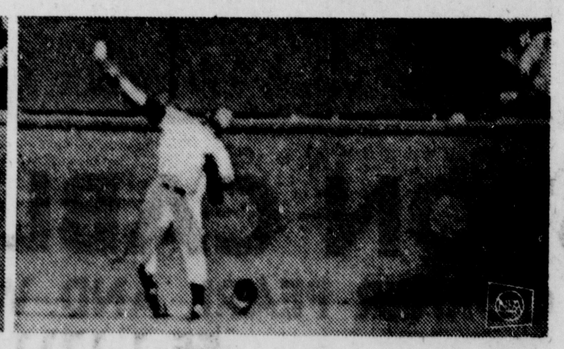

Wertz' hit soared menacingly toward the right centerfield bleachers. But below it a frantic outfielder was running at it from beneath his cap, Willie Mays.

With his back to the diamond all the way and with very little opportunity even to see the ball, Mays dashed to within three feet of the wall, stuck out his hands . . . and caught it.

He whirled, cocked his arm, threw to the infield and then, still partly under the influence of the laws of motion, fell over backwards to the ground.

It saved the day, possibly more than that. The Giants went on to win the game (5-2) and the Series (4-0).

Ortiz Confident Of Winning Title

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Carlos Ortiz, the former lightweight boxing champion, believes the rooting support of Puerto Rican fans will help him regain the title from world champion Ismael Laguna of Panama tonight in their return bout.

The 29-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker lost the 135-pound division crown to Laguna on a 15-round decision in Panama last April 10. Ortiz claims hostility of Panama fans "unnerved me.

"I'm telling you, they fired guns into the air each time Laguna threw a jab," said Ortiz. "I couldn't leave the hotel before the fight and I had to hire a bodyguard."

In the friendly surroundings of his native land Ortiz was rated close to even money in the betting although the odds in New York had Laguna an 8-5 favorite for the 15-rounder in outdoor Hiram Bithorn Stadium.

Laguna said he was surprised at Ortiz' comments over his treatment in Panama.

"We treated him like a king," said the 22-year-old champion. "He was beaten in the ring and I'm confident it will happen again."

Some of the anti-Ortiz feeling in Panama developed from a postponement of the first fight, originally scheduled for February. Ortiz got the postponement because of illness. Panamanian newspapers claimed Ortiz was trying to get out of the fight.

Laguna has a 39-2-1 record. Ortiz' record is 44-5-1. The champion has been guaranteed $30,000. Ortiz will collect 30 per cent of the gate.

ALL'S WELL—Former champion Floyd Patterson indicates he's in fine shape for his Nov. 22 meeting with heavyweight titleholder Cassius Clay in Las Vegas. Floyd will be trying to regain the title he lost to Sonny Liston.

Grand Way Names Vine to Personnel

NEW YORK—David Vine has been appointed personnel manager of the 26-unit Grand Way Department Store division of the Grand Union Company.

Vine, who succeeds Richard Ross, resigned, will make his headquarters in the Grand Way Executive offices, 132 West 31st Street, New York City.

Prior to joining Grand Way, Vine served as personnel director of Darling Shops and Grayson-Robinson Stores. Earlier, he was at Saks Fifth Avenue as director of executive development and with Lane Bryant as budget department merchandise manager for the company's Philadelphia store and its branches.

Owners Come First, Ford Frick Testifies

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick (disclaiming all responsibility for the Braves' shift from Milwaukee to Atlanta), said yesterday the primary responsibility of a baseball owner was to himself and not to the fans.

Facing a battery of concerned parties from Milwaukee and the state of Wisconsin, Frick said in a sworn deposition that the main responsibility of an owner was to himself as an investor, to his stockholders and to his partners in the league.

"They have the responsibility to a community to put on the best show possible," Frick said. "Their obligation is to provide them with the cleanest and best entertainment possible. They have no obligation to accept a loss or operate at a loss."

Frick's deposition was requested by Milwaukee County, which has filed an anti-trust suit against baseball. The county is attempting to prevent the Braves from opening the 1966 season in Atlanta unless Milwaukee is given another major league team as a replacement.

A separate anti-trust suit has been filed by Wisconsin for the similar purpose of blocking the Braves' move to Atlanta.

The Braves' contract with Milwaukee County expires Dec. 31 and the team already has shifted its headquarters to Atlanta.

The 70-year-old commissioner, who will retire from the post he has held since 1951 as soon as a successor is found, disclaimed all responsibility for the Braves' franchise shift to Atlanta, explaining that it was entirely a league matter. Frick said that as commissioner he had only an advisory voice.

Steven E. Keane, a special counsel retained by the county, attempted by his questioning to ascertain the responsibility of Frick in this move as well as the role he played in previous franchise shifts and major league expansion.

Frick reiterated on several occasions that the baseball commissioner has no actual influence on the transfer of a baseball club from one city to another.

"I think he has no authority whatsoever, except the influence he has for persuasion," Frick said.

Produces Letter

Keane then produced a letter written by Frick to Charles Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, threatening him with punishment in connection with a proposal by Finley to move his franchise.

Frick answered that while an owner had the right to conduct his own business, "that right must be exercised in a manner that is not detrimental to baseball as a whole."

The commissioner explained that Finley's actions were detrimental because he had not consulted the other American League owners and instead had gone to the newspapers using "his threatened franchise shift as a weapon to get a better contract" in Kansas City.

When the Washington team was shifted to Minnesota, Frick said he strongly urged the American League owners to give Washington a new franchise. Frick explained he was able to do this because baseball was in the midst of expansion at the time and there was a franchise available.

Frick added he still felt Milwaukee was a very good baseball town and if he had anything to do with a future expansion "Milwaukee would definitely be on my list."

Keane requested an adjournment in Frick's testimony until Nov. 23 so that he can review documents produced from the commissioner's office. National League president Warren Giles will testify Nov. 22.

The deposition was held at the law office of Clark, Carr and Ellis. Counsel for Frick was Paul A. Porter.

President Theodore Roosevelt signed the order returning the captured Confederate regimental flags to their respective states.

Labor Federation Defends Strikes as Workers' Weapon

By NEIL GILBRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the face of a six-year high in labor strife and rising demands to curb union power, the AFL-CIO came to the defense today of labor's ultimate weapon — the strike.

In a special report entitled "Why Strikes?" the giant labor federation likened some recent proposals for new antistrike laws to a drastic remedy for a headache:

"Decapitation will cure a headache, but it can scarcely be called a remedy," said the report in the organization's magazine "The American Federationist."

That's exactly what some labor critics would do to American collective bargaining in recommending such solutions as compulsory arbitration and other government controls to quell strikes, the report said.

Increase in Strikes

"The Soviet approach — no strikes at all, with complete government control of labor-management relations — is seldom advocated in the United States although some of the 'answers' offered would approach this effect in practice," it said.

The 1965 rise in strikes to the highest level since 1959, the fact that labor relations is this year's national high school debate topic, and the flareup in the railroad firemen's case were among the reasons that spurred the AFL-CIO to answer its critics.

In the railroad case, the jobs of some 17,000 engine firemen have been wiped out under the first peacetime compulsory arbitration law in U.S. history but the bitter dispute is still far from settled.

Applying the special railroad law to all labor disputes to end strikes would be virtually like adopting the Soviet system, the report said.

Basic to Bargaing

In defense of strikes, the report said they are basic to the U. S. system of collective bargaining and actually cause only an infinitesimal loss of production — two-tenths of one per cent of all working time so far this year.

Although nearly 19 million man-days of work have been lost in strikes so far this year, injuries on the job cost twice that much and Labor Department estimates on time lost through unemployment approach the astronomical figure of 1 billion man-days a year, it said.

Other AFL-CIO arguments:

"Strikes have little or no effect on economic growth" because production and overtime soar after a walkout to make up for lost time.

Few Workers Involved

Most strikes last only about two weeks and the majority involve relatively few workers — only big strike threats like steel and railroads make headlines.

What about the argument that workers themselves rarely recover from their strike losses?

For instance, a worker earning $100 a week who went on strike only one week to win a wage raise of 10 cents an hour would take six months to make up the week's loss in pay.

"The arithmetic of the strike for a worker, of course, does not provide much understanding of why workers are willing to strike," the report said.

Ignores Strike Reasons

"There are those who argue that strikes are always futile for workers because they never get back their lost earnings. The worker always loses, they say," the report continued.

But, it added, "This argument is unrealistic. It ignores the reasons for strikes. Of course, many workers would agree they personally cannot quickly make up wages lost in a long strike," it said.

"Workers strike only because they feel that bettering their conditions and maintaining their union is worth the sacrifice," the report said.

"They strike to get a fair settlement because they could not get it any other way," it said.

What about the argument that a strike would damage the public interest — the appeal President Johnson used in helping forestall a threatened big steel strike recently?

There are many "publics," including the employers and workers involved in a strike, the report said.

"Certainly the public is no more inconvenienced than the workers or management," it said.

"Perhaps the most important public interest is one seldom mentioned in regard to strikes these days: the freedom of workers to strike and the freedom of employers to allow a strike to take place," it added.

Negro to Give $12,000 for Vote Recount in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Carl B. Stokes planned to deposit nearly $12,000 today with the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections for a recount of votes cast in the Nov. 2 mayoral election here.

The latest count left Stokes within 1,925 votes of becoming the first Negro mayor of a major U.S. city.

He tried Friday to get the board to recount the votes at its own expense because of alleged irregularities he listed. But the board said there was no provision in Ohio law for recounting the entire 236,000 votes cast in the 1,189 polling places.

However, an election board recount of nine precincts Thursday cut Mayor Ralph S. Locher's winning margin from 1,993 to 1,925.

200 Rip Down Union Jack in Tanzania Rally

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Two hundred rampaging university students broke into the British Information Services offices today, smashed windows and wrecked furniture. They also tore down the Union Jack from the nearby British High Commission building and stoned High Commissioner Robert Fowler's car.

The action was in apparent protest against Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence and the reluctance of Britain to retaliate with direct and immediate force.

Makes Time Payoff

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Frank Jones has been drawing practically all of his life, but during the last 15 years he has had more time for it.

Fifteen years ago he was sentenced to prison for his wife's slaying. Today he is a winner in national art competition in Greensboro. One of his paintings was purchased by a gallery.

Jones, about 60, is an inmate at the Texas Department of Corrections, Huntsville, Tex.

Anatole France was the pen name of Jacques Anatole Tribauld, French novelist.

Whistle in Vain

Speeding Auto Kills 3 Children

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The school crossing guard blew her whistle frantically as the car bore down on the children.

Then the street became a welter of fallen youngsters—three killed and two injured.

The car sped away as the guard's whistle shrieked in vain.

"The kids were flying everywhere," said Lena Ragozzino the guard, Friday. The children had been on their way home for lunch.

Cleveland police later arrested John H. Barnes, 41, who they said admitted driving the car.

Police said Barnes told them he was going 25 miles an hour and that the children ran in front of his car. But, said police witnesses said the car was going 60 to 70 m.p.h. and through a traffic light.

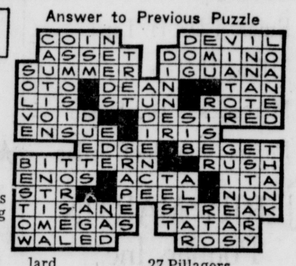

Barnes has been arrested 18 times for traffic violations since 1954, officers said.

Killed were Tracie Lewis, 5, Linda Lewis, 8, and Richard Gonda, 9. The girls were not related.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS

The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than legal minimum wages or pay wage differentials based on sex. Most employes engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and time and one-half for hours worked over 40 in a week. Beginning September 3, 1964, most employes in certain large retail service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and time and one-half for hours worked over 42 in a week. The Act also requires equal pay for equal work for men and women if you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act, call or write the U. S. Labor Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx N. Y. 10452 WYandotte 2-1235

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law Against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Siena Priest Says Church Contradicts Its Own Teachings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The president of a national federation of Roman Catholic college students says "the (Roman Catholic) church has openly contradicted its own teachings" in a dispute over the social work of a Franciscan priest.

Martin Sullivan, 21, of Troy, made that statement Friday at a meeting of more than 1,200 students, who had gathered to voice approval for the work of The Rev. Bonaventure O'Brien.

Sullivan is president of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, which claims 100,000 members in 113 colleges.

Father O'Brien, 30, teaches theology at suburban Siena College, a Roman Catholic institution.

The priest, a member of the Franciscan Order, has been active in community affairs in this city's South End, a predominantly poor, Negro neighborhood.

He reportedly has been critical of what he terms Albany's Democratic administration's failure to participate in federal anti-poverty programs.

The Albany Roman Catholic Diocese has asked for a directive from the order's provincial to restrict Father O'Brien's activities to his duties as teacher and counselor at the Catholic college.

In his address, Sullivan said he was "confident" he spoke for the members of the National Federation of Catholic College students in "expressing our dissatisfaction with the turn of events," adding:

"I have only the greatest respect and love for the Catholic Church and its teachings. Yet in this case it seems to me that the Church has openly contradicted its own teachings."

The gathering also approved a statement passed earlier in the day by the college's Student Senate, which, in part, read:

"We demand, that the Diocese of Albany no longer prevent or discourage the Christian involvement of men."

The statement also urged the Bishop of Albany to halt what the students termed, "this hypocratical method avoiding responsibility on the part of the diocesan hierachy."

Dawson Listed Officially Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A year and a week ago Capt. Daniel G. Dawson, 27, disappeared while flying a spotter plane mission over enemy territory in Viet Nam.

His brother Don, a year older, of Costa Mesa, Calif., went to Viet Nam and, against military advice, into Viet Cong territory to learn what happened to Dan.

"Dan would do the same for me," Don said.

Don returned home Sept. 2 after six months of searching and four months a prisoner of the Viet Cong. They finally told him his brother was dead, showed him a vest they said Dan wore and sent him back to American lines.

Friday the Defense Department officially reported that Capt. Daniel G. Dawson, husband of Arlene Dawson of Rohnert Park, Calif., was dead, of other than hostile causes.

Bonnie Educator Dies

The World's Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The power failed and suddenly everything that depended upon electricity to work just didn't. Turbines as big as houses and motors as small as pencil erasers went dead.

In a couple of winks darkness came to most of a huge section of the Northeast, and parts of Ontario, Canada — Black Tuesday had arrived.

How did it happen? No precise answer came by the week's end.

Could Be Repeat

Can it happen again? No one could say positively, but there were sinking feelings that it could.

There were plenty of people demanding or seeking an answer. Because while this greatest blackout in American history was reportedly no known product of disaster or catastrophe, it was a reminder that perhaps an enemy or a saboteur could blanket an area in blackness and stop the wheels and gears and surge of power that keeps America moving.

When the lights went out late that afternoon the incandescence of Broadway vanished. The glow of a city that can be seen from dozens of miles at sea and from scores of miles in the air, dimmed. It was as if New York City had been swallowed in a dark sea.

Human Reaction Varies

The human reaction was as varied as humans. If there was panic . . . if there was a niggling fear that destruction would follow darkness . . . there was little show of it. Strangers bumping one another in the dark said "beg your pardon" or "excuse me" . . . . exchanging civilities often forgotten in the rushed world of normality. There was an atmosphere of the holiday when it became apparent — on the basis of radio reports — that this could be compared to a giant fuse blowing. There was no war over the horizon, no fifth column paving the way.

People suffered and worried and experienced enormous inconvenience and days later the city was full of people asking, "Where were you when the lights went out?" and exchanging case histories of hours trapped in commuter or subway trains, climbing X-number of stories to a hotel room, descending X-number of stairs to get to the street.

It was a Tuesday to remember and — until some satisfactory answer is made — to reckon with.

No Alarm at First

At first the doctors did not register undue alarm. Detailed examination they said showed that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had suffered only a heart insufficiency. The condition required that he rest at Ft. Gordon, Ga., and there was talk that in perhaps two weeks the 75-year-old general would be able to return to his pastime and pleasure: golf. But on Friday, after the general had experienced further pain, there came a new diagnosis: He had suffered a heart attack. It was the same as the one that felled him in 1955.

A team of six physicians attended Eisenhower. He was being administered drugs to combat blood-clotting and irregularities of heart rhythm. This followed the same routine as was used in helping him survive the attack 10 years ago. Constant electronic monitoring of his heart action was being maintained by the medical team. One doctor always remained at the monitoring screen, waiting and watching.

And, in spirit, the nation waited and watched with him.

Minority Goes Ahead

Despite the pleading, exhortation, threats, the white minority went ahead. It framed its statement in terms borrowed from the document in which colonizers declared, in 1776, independence from the British crown, and created a new nation across the Atlantic. But the declaration read by Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia promised not a government that would rule by consent of the governed but guaranteed that the nation of four million blacks would be ruled by 220,000 whites.

"Rebellion," "treason," said Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Emergency powers were sought in the House of Commons. Defiance of British authority, Smith was warned, amounts to no less than treason.

The United Nations General Assembly, by a vote of 102-2, gave world support to the British position and called upon Britain to put down the Smith takeover.

World's Fear Clear

The fear for the world was clear: Would the frustration of Rhodesia's blacks for a voice in their own destiny produce the bloodbath of another Congo?

Making its approach to the Greater Cincinnati Airport, the Boeing 727 jet airliner was about two miles north of the port Monday night. In the measure of jet speed, it would be at the port in minutes, even with an electrical storm going. Then there was the hill. The American Airlines Flight 383 from New York plunged into it. There were 62 aboard — 58 died.

While investigators sought some clue to this crash, another Boeing 727 — a United Airlines flight which also originated in New York — touched down short of the landing strip at Salt Lake City on Thursday night. As it touched ground, the landing gear collapsed. The rear section of the aircraft, where the three jet engines are mounted, burst into flames. Of the 91 abroad, 41 were killed. They were victims of the fire which swept the plane.

Third Since August

It was the third crash of a Boeing 727 since August. In that accident, the plane went into Lake Michigan off Lake Forest, Ill., just north of Chicago. Thirty were killed.

On Thursday, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the nation the U.S. troop buildup in South Viet Nam would continue. He gave the present strength there as 160,000. But as to how many more were ticketed for Viet Nam or when they would depart, not a single word. Said McNamara, that would amount to giving information to "our opponents."

For nearly half a century, the patriarch of Virginia politics has wielded his power and influence in the United States Senate. And now, at the age of 78, Sen. Harry Flood Byrd was ready to leave office. He could no longer keep at it, he said on Thursday. His health really prevented him from attending to the tasks of his office.

His letter of resignation went to Virginia Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. It was accepted and on Friday, Harrison appointed Sen. Byrd's successor: Harry F. Byrd Jr., the senator's oldest son.

As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Byrd often was a thorne in the administration's fiscal side. His successor there — Sen. Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat and an administration supporter.

There was a feeling, too, that with the senator's departure there would come a bitter struggle for the Virginia Democratic party which he held in tight conservative control for decades.

Quotes of the week:

"Where were you when the lights wnt out?" — by just about everyone caught in the great Northeast blackout.

Immunization Clinic

A clinic for immunizations against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, Friday, Nov. 19, from 10:30-11:15 a. m.

Immunizationss for whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus should be started at three months of age; smallpox vaccination should be given sometime during the first year of life; and polio immunizations should be started from three to six months of age.

These clinics serve those who are referred by their physician or those who are otherwise unable to secure these immunizations.

Loses Mother Again

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Linda Lee Ridings, the 6-year-old girl, who finally found her mother after four years on the migratory farm labor circuit, lost her mother again — at least temporarily.

A Superior Court judge Friday ordered the girl placed in a foster home. She had been in custody of her mother, Barbara Ridings of Los Angeles.

Police reported that in 1961 Mrs. Ridings agreed to let the child's babysitter take Linda on a two-week vacation. She was reunited with her mother in September.

When Joshua C. Stoddard of Pawlet, Vt., patented the steam calliope in 1855, he named it after the Greek muse of eloquence and epic poetry.

Star-Tracker Is Launched From Kennedy Center

CAPE KNNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A new star-tracking guidance device rocketed into space Friday night in a successful test of a system which might steer future missiles and spacecraft.

The star-tracker first aimed its telescope at the North Star, then shifted to a second dimmer star for reference during the brief 15-minute flight.

The Air Force said the system would be especially applicable to mobile missiles such as the Polaris. It would enable a missile — or a spacecraft — to be launched on an approximate flight path and once above the atmosphere, it could take star readings and calculate its own course to target.

Salt Lake Crash His Second in Five Days

'Oh No, It Can't Happen Again,' Is Reaction of United Survivor

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — "Oh no, it can't happen again. And here I am only 30 miles from home."

That was Lt. John J. Sullivan's thought Thursday night when United Air Lines Flight 227 crashlanded short of a Salt Lake City airport runway and turned into flaming death for 41 persons.

The latest presumed fatality was identified Friday night as Mrs. George T. Wood by United officials. They said their passenger lists did not include her name.

George T. Wood of Cheyenne, Wyo., said his wife had boarded a connecting flight to United's Flight 227 at Cheyenne Thursday, en route to Salt Lake City to attend a funeral.

Sullivan, 24, of Malden, Mass., was one of the 50 survivors. It was the second time in five days he had lived through an air crash.

He had been the navigator on an Air Force C124 Globemaster that collided with a small plane Sunday over Tulsa, Okla. Sullivan was en route back to Hill Air Force Base — 30 miles north of Salt Lake — with three other crew members who survived the Oklahoma collision.

Other Three Not Lucky

The other three didn't escape death Thursday.

Airport manager Joe Bergin said Friday the airliner touched down "300 to 400 feet short of the runway," then bounced, skidded along the concrete airstrip, twisted off onto a sand patch and burned.

As the tri-jet Boeing 727 bellied into the ground, lost its main landing gear and twisted down the runway, Sullivan saw flames burst from the rear of the plane.

"The first indication that anything might have been wrong was when I felt this large surge of power, as if the pilot was trying to get extra power up," Sullivan said at Hill Air Force Base hospital.

His face was splotchy red. A day's growth of beard was mixed with tiny burn scabs.

"I looked around just before the plane came to a stop and I saw a curlycue of flame cut across the rear of the cabin — like the fuselage had been cracked open."

Then Mad Dash

Sullivan said everyone sat still until the plane came to rest. Then there was a mad dash for the emergency exits.

"There was panic," Sullivan said. "There was no consideration for other people, no consideration whatsoever. They all started to knock out the emergency exit windows and smoke started to fill the plane.

"There was an exit right behind my seat, but everyone was cramming to get out. I dashed for the other side but so many people were squeezing out I had to wait my turn. Suddenly there was a flash of light and dense black smoke enveloped us."

Sullivan finally jumped through the exit into the left wing, then to the ground.

S.I. Has Brief Power Failure, Skipped Other

NEW YORK (AP)—The only borough of New York to completely escape the massive power failure Tuesday night—Staten Island—had a brief blackout Friday night.

Power failed in the community of Tottenville on the island. About 1,100 homes in a 10-block area were without electricity from 9:50 to 10:40 p.m.

"I thought it was our turn now," said one woman, noting that Staten Island's lights stayed on during the blackout over the northeast.

A spokesman for Consolidated Edison said a short circuit in a utility pole during a rainfall caused the failure.

Complaint Backfires

CALIPATRIA, Calif. (AP) — Police assigned squad cars to check complaints of mothers that boys too young to have licenses were driving to high school classes.

Officers made this report:

Unlicensed teenage drivers cited: none.

Mothers cited for driving without licenses: nine.

Police Chief Roy Courtney said: "All the women said they had drivers' licenses. They just forgot them in their haste to get the kids to school."

VFW Meets Tuesday

Members of Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, Veterans o Foreign Wars and the Auxiliary will hold a special meeting Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the VFW Hall, 552 Delaware Avenue, at 8 p. m. Last week's scheduled meeting was postponed due to the power blackout. Commander Clayton Bruck requests a large attendance of members.

Select Murder Jury

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A trial has begun in Erie County Court for a 26-year-old housewife accused of killing her husband.

The selection of a jury began in the first-degree murder trial of Mrs. Arlene Pinkowski of suburban Cheektowaga.

She was accused of beating and stabbing her husband, Ronald, 29, last May 19 at the couple's home.

Judge Jacob A. Latona presided at the trial.

Court Suspends Fines

Village Police Justice Michael Catilinotto, of Saugerties, suspended imposition of fines totaling $125 Friday night in the case of a Saugerties motorist who admitted two separate traffic charges. Fine of $100 was suspended on a charge of driving an unregistered vehicle against Colen Vaughn, 18, of Box 34, Saugerties RD, while a $25 fine was suspended on a charge of driving with improper plates. The charges were preferred by Patrolman Anthony Scarselli.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS are a GROWTH BUSINESS

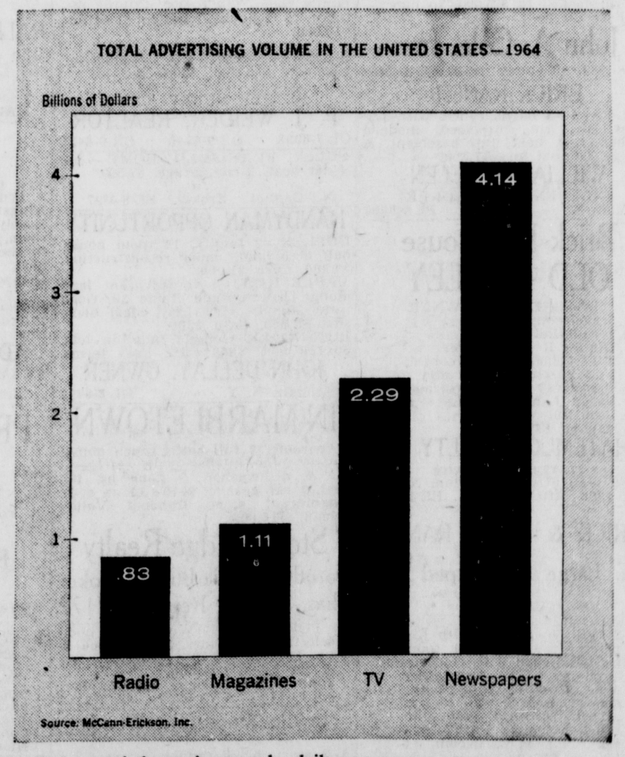

Newspapers are first by far in advertising

In 1964 newspapers carried as much advertising as radio, television and magazines combined!

By every index newspapers are growing. Their advertising volume has more than tripled since 1946. Last year newspaper advertising totaled more than four billion dollars, putting newspapers ahead of all other media by a wide margin.

Circulation has reached a new high of 60,400,000 copies sold daily. Newspaper employment shows steady growth—more than three times as fast as the growth for all manufacturing. And the prospects are for substantial growth in the future.

Newspapers are growing for one reason: Only the newspaper covers the news fully and in depth. There is no substitute for the daily newspaper.

For more information on why daily newspapers are a growth business, write for a free copy of the new booklet, "The Growth of the American Daily Newspaper," an economic analysis published by the University of Wisconsin.

Tribute Is Paid To Scientist for Space Rocket Aid

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — In the wake of World War II, many scientists from Germany were brought quietly to the United States to work on the American space program.

Two of these men were Dr. Walter Dornberger, who had commanded the German rocket base at Peenemunde that developed the V1 and V2 rockets used against England, and an associate, Dr. Wernher Von Braun.

Dornberger was honored Friday night for his contributions to American space technology. He plans to retire next month as vice president of research at Textron's Bell Aerosystems Co. of Buffalo.

And Von Braun, who now heads the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's manned flight center at Huntsville, Ala., referred to his former boss as "the true trailblazer of space."

Von Braun came to Buffalo for the testimonial dinner.

He praised American citizens and communities that he said had been tolerant and fair toward the influx of strangers into this country following the war.

"Not only were these people strangers, but some of them were former enemies, like Walter and myself," said Von Braun.

"I know of no country in the world where this could happen, except the United States," he added.

He spoke of the rocket development, which included a great many failures, at the Peenemunde Station on the Baltic Sea. He said Dornberger displayed fortitude to rise from disappointment, ability to change and foster new thinking on technology, and loyalty and vision in the German project.

"Walter applies the same traits to his work in the United States, his adopted country. He urged the establishment of an adequate ballistic - missile program when no one in the United States feared the Russians were building missiles," said Von Braun.

Rheingold Takes Over Ruppert Despite JD Move

Rheingold Breweries this week acquired the bulk of the Jacob Ruppert Inc., despite anti-trust action by the Justice Department.

The government filed suit in Manhattan Federal Court Tuesday to block the takeover before is was announced, but yesterday said it will withdraw its request for a temporary injunction against Rheingold because Rheingold promised to continue to operate Ruppert separately for the present.

Rheingold is buying the trademarks and some equipment and distributing facilities of Jacob Ruppert Inc., and will take over Ruppert's brands of beer.

Although the government agreed to withdraw its suit for a temporary injunction, it will proceed with its action for a permanent injunction.

If the anti-trust suit is ultimately successful, it will be possible for Rheingold to divest Ruppert, according to a Justice Department attorney.

Rheingold agreed to maintain, promote and advertise Ruppert's three brands of beer, Ruppert, Knickerbocker and Esslinger and to permit the Justice Department to check Rheingold's record and to interview its employes to be sure Rheingold is living up to the terms of the agreement.

No Amount Given

Rheingold refused to disclose the amount paid or whether it was in stock or cash or how the purchase is being financed.

Ruppert will retain its brewery in New York on Third Ave. at 80th St. and the land it is on, as well as the Jacob Ruppert Aluminum Corp., a can-making company, and the Boston Celtics baseball club.

Ruppert is a subsidiary of National Equities, Inc., a company formed last March when Kratter Corp., later renamed Countrywide Realty, Inc., spun off certain assets, including the brewery.

The Ruppert company's history goes back to 1854. It was a profitable operation before prohibition and was prosperous in the two decades after repeal. Intense competition in the brewing business has hurt its sales and earnings in recent years.

Group Proposes New CR Bills

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Equal Rights Council is urging the Scranton Administration to introduce a package of civil rights legislation in the Republican-controlled Senate.

The administration's package has been lingering in the Democratic House since its introduction about four months ago. Rep. K. Leroy Irvis Democratic caucus chairman, has been represented as preparing legislation of his own.

Council representatives conferred with A. James Richley, Scranton's chief legislative aide Friday and complained about what they called "a lack of forceful leadership" in piloting the package.

Mrs. Marguerite I. Hoffern, council chairman, said, "There is not enough support to do anything about it. It's amounted to nothing more than lip service."

Richley, who said he would relay their wishes to the governor, said he did not think there was enough time to introduce the bills in the Senate and have them enacted into law.

This appeared unlikely, he added, especially in view of the Republican leadership's announced intention to try to complete its major business next week.

Esopus Transacts Routine Affairs

The routine administration of the affairs of a township was the order of the day at the monthly meeting of the Esopus Town Board held this week at the Town Hall, Port Ewen.

A letter was received from J. Wilson Tinney, Port Ewen, tendering his resignation as a member of the Port Ewen Board of Water Commissioners. Tinney cited a number of training courses he is taking in connection with his employment at I.B.M. as preventing him from attending board meetings and being able to participate in other affairs of the commission. His resignation was accepted with regret and the Town Board expressed their appreciation for his past work on behalf of the districts.

More Interviews

The Town Planning Board announced they were conducting a series of interviews with professional planners with a view to picking a consultant to assist the Planning Board in the preparation of a master plan for the township. Two interviews were held this past week, one is scheduled today, and another is planned for Nov. 18.

It was announced by Justice of the Peace Allan S. Dargie that violators of the town's auto junkyard ordinance are being prosecuted. Several alleged violators have been called before Justice Dargie and directed to clean up their premises. Other possible violators are scheduled to appear before him.

A letter was received from Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley, a granddaughter of the famous naturalist John Burroughs and a resident of West Park. Mrs. Kelley asked for the Board's help and cooperation in trying to preserve the land surrounding "Slabsides", the woodside cabin where John Burroughs did a great deal of his nature writing. "Slabsides" is preserved by the John Burroughs Memorial Association and the Association fears that urban growth or logging operations nearby could spoil forever the natural wooded beauty that still exists in the area. So far this year over 700 people have visited "Slabsides." The Town Board agreed to meet with Mrs. Kelley and to cooperate in whatever way they can to further the aims of the association.

Report Water Progress

It was announced that approximately 2,000 feet of water supply main had been installed along Millbrook Drive in the carrying out of the Connelly water supply project. A bond anticipation note in the amount of $25,000 was authorized to pay for the work that will be accomplished prior to the sale of bonds for the project.

The Board agreed to appoint the town's five fire chiefs and deputies they might designate as assistant town fire marshals for the purpose of issuing fire burning permits. The move was made to comply with a recent ruling on the issuance of fire permits made by the state attorney general involving a case in another part of the state.

A letter was received from Byron VanVoorhis requesting that a presently unnamed town road leading off the New Salem Road be named VanVoorhis Lane. The request was granted.

In response to a letter from Hasbrouck Engine Company No. 1, Connelly, it was agreed to place "No Parking" signs along Center Street, Connelly. The firehouse is located on Center Street and due to the narrowness of the street the firemen feel "No Parking" restrictions are necessary in order to facilitate the movement of fire apparatus.

Agreement on Poles

An agreement was executed with the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation to permit the use of their poles for the hanging of Christmas decorations in Port Ewen by the Port Ewen Business Men's Association. A letter was also received from the State Department of Public Works lifting the "restricted" designation of highway 9-W through Port Ewen. The designation had been made in connection with the recent repaving project of the highway in that area.

Supervisor Roger Mabie called attention to the fact that 16 trees had been planted by the state along route 9W in the Port Ewen area at the conclusion of their repaving project. The trees were included in the project as the result of Town Board action at the time the contract was drawn up.

DeVall H. Dunbar, building inspector, reported the issuance of permits during the past month with a total valuation of the work undertaken of $20,000. The permits included one residence, two garages, two building additions, and the new FM tower of radio station WGHQ atop Hussey Hill. Roland H. Myers, chairman of the Port Ewen Water Board, reported that the average daily usage of system users during October had been 192,000 gallons.

Directs Men From Front

Captain's Aggressiveness Rubs Off on Entire Unit

(AP) — Marine Capt. Didley Thomas once found himself in the novel position of directing a fire fight between his company and the Viet Cong from no man's land — directly between the opposing forces.

"I'm afraid we're going to lose the old man some day," one of the company said. "He's too hard a charger."

Is Crack Shot

Thomas stands 6 feet 4, weighs 240 pounds, and is a crack shot. On duty outside war zones, he wears sheets of lead strapped to his forearms to strengthen the muscles for pistol matches. His home is in Greenwood, Miss.

There is an old saying in the Marine Corps that "If the Corps wanted you to have a wife, they'd issue one."

Thomas followed this precept for a time, but finally married the woman for him — an expert pistol shot. He met her at a pistol match.

Thomas likes to battle Viet Cong, whether in a rifle fight or by using his civic action teams to convince villagers the Americans are here to help, not enslave them.

His aggressiveness carries through his entire unit. It is Kilo Company of the 3rd Battalion, 7th Marine Regiment, stationed at Chu Lai, 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

The men call themselves "the Killer Company." Others call them "the Purple Heart Company." Nineteen Kilo Marines have been wounded since Sept. 20. One died.

One of Thomas' lieutenants, Jack Lingenfelter of St. Louis, Mo., said:

Fighting Measures Morale

"Morale in this company can be measured by the fighting we encounter. When we go on an operation and there's a stiff firefight with the Viet Cong, spirits are high for a week. When we go out and it's nothing more than a walk in the woods, the guys grumble."

Thomas directs his men from the front, rather than from behind the rifle platoons, as the book advises. It was this penchant for being out in front that caught him in no man's land.

He was far out in front when the Viet Cong opened fire. Thomas hit the ground and began calling out enemy positions over his field radio.

A platoon sergeant said: "Bullets must have been going just inches over him, but he lay cool as all hell telling the riflemen where to shoot."

Strictly Professional

The Kilo Company Marines are strictly professional when they go to war. On a recent two-battalion operation they methodically uncovered and destroyed seven antipersonnel mines strewn by the Viet Cong.

During a break while the Marines were eating C rations on a railroad embankment, a single sniper shot flicked dirt near Pfc. Bill Cole, an Oklahoma boy. Cole looked up with mild interest and remarked: "He couldn't hit anything at that range."

The two-battalion operation did not turn out well for Kilo Company. The outfit captured two Viet Cong but had not one exchange of shots. The occasional sniper's bullet was ignored because Thomas' men do not believe in shooting at what they cannot see.

LBJ May Get Blackout Report In Coming Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson may get a report next week on the probable cause of massive power failure last Tuesday that affected eight northeastern states and parts of Canada.

The investigation by government and industry power experts recessed Friday until Monday, but Chairman Joseph Swidler of the Federal Power Commission said he and a small staff will continue to work through the weekend.

Swidler, who heads the inquiry ordered by the President, said earlier this week he hoped to have something for the President by the weekend.

He said Friday, "I don't have a target date. We will be in better shape to know after Monday or Tuesday."

Swidler refused to speculate on the exact cause of the power failure, or on where it occurred.

He said a detailed study of all available records this weekend and early next week "may give us the story of exactly what did happen."

Javits Assails DeGaulle Threat To Bolt NATO

PARIS (AP)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits says the North Atlantic Treaty Organization could continue without France, and adds he hopes it would if France pulls out.

The Republican from New York State made that statement Friday at a news conference, in which he strongly criticized President Charles De Gaulle's threat to withdraw from NATO by 1969 unless certain changes are effected in its structure.

If NATO can no longer find a "congenial home in France," its offices "could be moved to the low countries, Germany or Britain," Javits said.

The senator is here to attend a NATO committee meeting on aid to Turkey and Greece.

Business Week In Review

By JACK LEFELR

NEW YORK (AP) — The aluminum price increase collapsed like a house of cards during the week.

The aluminum industry wilted after the Johnson administration said it would sell 300,000 tons of the metal from the government's strategic stockpile.

Alcoa First

Aluminum Co. of America, the No. 1 producer, rescinded the increase Wednesday and other companies followed.

It was reminiscent of the late President John F. Kennedy's victory in forcing the steel industry to roll back a price boost in 1962. But this time, President Johnson remained silent, leaving it to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler and government economists to carry the ball.

The government first met the price increase with on assertion that it would sell 200,000 tons of stockpiled aluminum. It said this had nothing to do with the price rise, but it labeled the boost as inflationary and unjustified. The producers declined to rescind.

Then the government played its trump card, announcing it would sell 300,000 tons of stockpiled aluminum, 100,000 tons of it immediately.

This was more than the industry could take and it backed down.

The decision by Alcoa to withdraw the increase of one-half cent a pound for ingots and one cent a pound for fabricated metal was announced in a hurriedly called news conference by McNamara Wednesday night.

He said Johnson considered the decision "an act of industrial statesmanship."

McNamara denied that the sale of stockpiled aluminum had been used as a club.

"I think we do an injustice to say they — the aluminum leaders — would act only when clubbed. These men are responsible leaders of the business community. They don't have to be clubbed."

Even after rescinding the increase, Alcoa and Reynolds Metals emphasized that they considered the price increases justified and need to maintain adequate profits.

The government arranged with industry leaders to resume talks on disposal of stockpiled metal.

Business was disrupted by the gigantic power failure that plunged most of the northeastern section into a 10-hour blackout Tuesday night. The effects continued through Wednesday.

Some estimates of lost sales, unearned salaries and overtime pay ranged as high as $100 million.

For one of the few times in its history, the stock market opened late the morning after. The 65-minute delay was due to a lack of power and personnel.

Banks were unable to clear checks because their computers were out of operation.

Automobile production rose again during the week. Output was estimated at 221,600 cars, compared with 219,199 the previous week and 178,327 a year ago.

The industry set a new calendar year record during the week when it topped the high of 7,942,123 cars built in 1955. With seven weeks of production remaining this year, it seemed likely that the industry's goal of 9 million cars would be met.

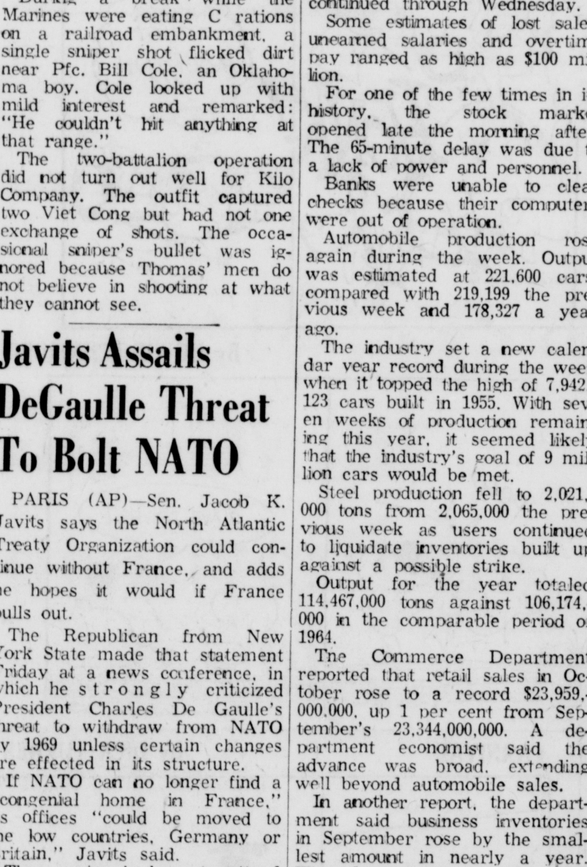

Steel production fell to 2,021,000 tons from 2,065,000 the previous week as users continued to liquidate inventories built up against a possible strike.

Output for the year totaled 114,467,000 tons against 106,174,000 in the comparable period of 1964.

The Commerce Department reported that retail sales in October rose to a record $23,959,000,000, up 1 per cent from September's 23,344,000,000. A department economist said the advance was broad, extending well beyond automobile sales.

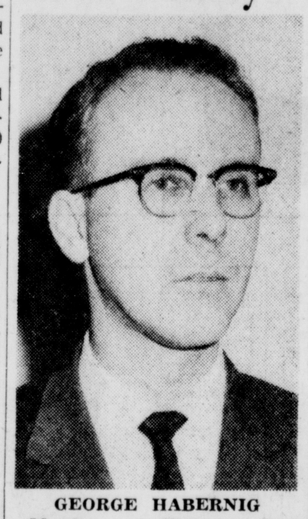

In another report, the department said business inventories in September rose by the smallest amount in nearly a year. The advance was placed at $60 million. This brought stocks to a total of $116.74 billion.

Several Specials On TV Schedule

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television specials have a tendency to cluster around holidays —and with Thanksgiving in the offing, sveral are coming up in the next seven days.

On Sunday there will be another in NBC's "Of Men and Freedom" series (6:30 - 7:30 p.m., EST.) This one deals with the English defeat of the Spanish armada in the 16th century.

"Sinatra," CBS News study of the performer, will occupy its late Tuesday night hour (10-11) —providing it is broadcast. Frank Sinatra's press agent recently announced the singer had withdrawn his permission to use material he had furnished for the special, but the network still has the show scheduled.

Acts from Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus will provide an NBC hour's entertainment for children on Thursday night (7:30-8:30). Later the same evening the network will present for adults a "Hall of Fame" adaptation of the stage play, "Inherit the Wind," with Melvyn Douglas and Ed Begley recreating the roles they played in the Broadway production (9:30-11).

Bob Hope will play the lead in a comedy drama, "Russian Roulette" on his Wednesday night NBC show (9-10). And Judy Garland will be hostess on Saturday night's "Hollywood Palace" on ABC (9:30-10:30).

Driver Is Injured In Thruway Mishap

A New Jersey motorist was reported in fair condition today in Kingston Hospital where he was taken by Saugerties Ambulance Service after a one-car accident about 3:30 this morning on the Thruway near the Saugerties interchange.

State police from the Thruway detail said that Walter Hanham, 55, of 315 Walthery Avenue, Ridgewood, N. J., suffered forehead and nose cuts. They said he was driving north on the super highway when he fell asleep, causing his car to leave the east shoulder of the road, strike several small trees, and overturn. Trooper Thomas J. Morrissey investigated.

Driver Faces Charge After Rt. 209 Mishap

A Kingston motorist was cited for a traffic violation after a two-car collision about 1:30 a. m. today at Route 209 and Vincent Street near Albany Avenue Extension in the Town of Ulster.

State Police at the Lake Katrine substation said that Guy Hamilton, 28, of 15 Lisa Lane, was scheduled to appear before Peace Justice Arthur A. Reilly on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. They said that John Elkins, 30, of 27 Vincent Street, was making a left turn onto that street when the Hamitlon vehicle struck the Elkins car in the process of passing, and continued on after the collision.

Troopers David Wachtel and Jerry Davis investigated. State Police from the substation also investigated four accidents overnight in which deer were struck by cars.

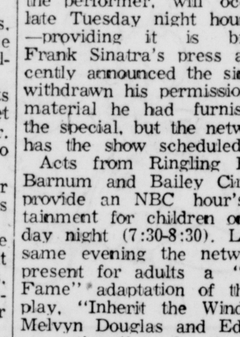

Ulster Constables Will Dance Tonight

The Town of Ulster constable force will sponsor a dance at Elmer's Inn, Ruby, tonight. Calvin Swart, chairman, said that a large attendance was expected to support the town constabulary. Dancing will begin at 9 p. m. with Tom Filocco and his Music Masters providing the music.

There will be awards and the public is invited. Tickets will be available at the door.
